HOUSEMAID, MISTAKEN FOR THIEF, SLAIN BY EMPLOYER

Manager of Insurance Company Says He Did Not Know She Was Out and She Did Not Speak in Entering Home on Spalding Avenue.

CALLS OUT THREE TIMES, 'WHO'S THERE?'

W. A. Jack Tells Police He Thought He Was Firing at Robber After Hearing Front Door Opened by Frieda Petersen.

Miss Frieda Petersen, 16 years old, a housemaid in the home of William A. Jack, 41, of 4931 Spalding avenue, manager of the Royal Insurance Co., died at 12:30 o'clock this morning from a bullet wound in the breast inflicted 15 minutes before by her employer, who had mistaken her for a burglar.

"I was awakened by a noise in the front part of the house," Jack said at the Deer Street Station, where he was taken as a prisoner, "and then I heard the front door being opened with a key. My wife and I had retired early and I supposed that Frieda was in her room. I did not know until after the shooting that my wife had given the girl permission to go out.

"No Response to 'Who's There?'" "I got my revolver from a dresser and went to the head of the stairs. I did not switch on the lights for fear of exposing myself to what I thought was a burglar. I called out 'Who's there?' and, receiving no response, twice repeated the question. Then I said: 'Answer, or I'll shoot.' Hearing the footsteps ascending the stairs and receiving no reply, I fired once. Then I heard a girl scream 'It's me, Frieda,' and, switching on the light, I saw her body tumble down the stairs to the first floor landing.

"I ran down and picked her up. As I carried her to her room on the second floor I asked her why she had not replied when I asked who she was coming up the stairs and she said that she thought I was only fooling. Then she became unconscious.

Girl Mistaken for Burglar. Jack said that there had been a number of burglaries in the neighborhood of his home recently and that he had not known that the girl was out, he felt sure that he had encountered a burglar.

Mrs. Jack corroborated her husband's story. She said that she had given Miss Petersen permission to go out and had not mentioned the fact to Jack. He retired at about 8 o'clock, she said, shortly after they had put their babies to bed. Miss Petersen had been employed at the house since Aug. 1.

Miss Petersen's mother, Mrs. Christina Petersen, lives at 1321 Whittier street, and a sister, Miss Catherine Petersen, lives at 4541 Manchester avenue. The inquest will be held tomorrow morning. Jack was released on a $10,000 bond.

RATS ON STEAMER, STARVED, ROUT CATS AND GNAW CHAIRS

Swarms on Leviathan Expected to Destroy Each Other With Absolute Ban on Food on Ship.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Swarms of rats made savage by starvation—a means instituted by quarantine officials to eradicate them—have attacked and put to flight a large cat family, it was learned today, and otherwise played havoc aboard the steamship Leviathan, formerly the German liner Vaterland.

Since the Leviathan has been tied up at a Hoboken pier, her rodent population has multiplied into legions. Purification has found impracticable and starvation tactics were employed several weeks ago, no particle of food being permitted aboard.

After the feline army was gone the rats attacked the ship's furnishings, gnawed the leather cushions, panels and other fittings being gnawed beyond repair.

Quarantine officers say, however, that the rats, in sight in their battle for life, they gnawed the rodents would destroy one another.

NO CHANGE YESTERDAY IN CONDITION OF GREEK KING

General State Same, According to Bulletin Issued at 7 O'clock in Evening.

ATHENS, Oct. 21.—No change of moment took place yesterday in the condition of King Alexander of Greece, according to the bulletin on the condition issued at 7 o'clock in the evening. His general state remained stationary, it was said.

Keen interest in the question of succession to the Greek throne, should King Alexander's illness terminate fatally, is being taken by the people, although nothing reliable relative to the subject is as yet known. The throne will undoubtedly be offered to Prince Paul, King Alexander's younger brother, but it is almost a foregone conclusion that the conditions accompanying the offer will render it unacceptable. In case of his refusal, it may be offered to some foreign Prince, and if he declines the situation may be solved by the proclamation of a republic.

TRAIN ROBBERS SHOOT BRAID OF HAIR FROM HEAD OF GIRL, 13

Shooting Follows Failure to Obey Command to Be Still—$1000 Taken in Holdup at Buffalo.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 21.—A holdup of a New York Central Railroad train in the railroad yards here early today resulted in the wounding of a trainman and netted the bandits less than $100.

Mary Jane Smith, 13 years old, of Cleveland, prompted by curiosity, disobeyed the command of the bandits that all the passengers remain in their seats from her head. A braid of hair was shot from her head.

Two men were arrested.

BRITISH RAILWAY MEN THREATEN TO JOIN MINE STRIKE

Announce They Will Go Out Unless Government Negotiations With Miners Are Reopened This Week.

VIRTUAL ULTIMATUM TO GOVERNMENT

Failure to Meet Demand Will Join "Whole Working Class" in Issue, It Is Declared.

By the Associated Press. LONDON, Oct. 21.—The coal strike situation took an unexpected and grave turn this afternoon when the railway men and transport workers announced that they would strike in sympathy with the miners unless negotiations between the Government and the miners were reopened this week.

The executive body of the Transport Workers' Federation held a meeting today, after which Secretary Robert Williams made the following statement:

"Unless something tangible happens between the Government and the railway men, the Transport Workers' Federation, in the next 24 hours, the issue will have to be joined between the whole of the working class and those who support the Government in their obduracy, to meet the claim which has been proclaimed by both the Triple Alliance and the Trade Union Congress as justified by right and in equity, and which has been conceded by the mine workers on the basis of increased cost of living and the need of maintaining the pre-war economic status of the mine workers."

Pressure Being Exerted. Pressure also is being exerted by the Trade Union Congress and the Parliamentary Committee of the labor men to force the Government to waive all prior considerations and call its own representatives to represent the miners together immediately.

The Government is understood to be standing firm on the ground that any increase in wages must have reference to increased productivity, but is willing to reopen the negotiations if the miners recognize this principle.

The Press Association this evening says it understands the district delegates of the miners have been summoned to a conference in London.

The railroad men's delegates issued what was virtually an ultimatum to the Government that all members cease work Sunday at midnight unless the strike was settled by negotiations which would effect a settlement begun by Saturday.

J. H. Thomas, general secretary of the National Union of Railwaymen, announced that the delegates of the railwaymen had decided "to instruct the general secretary to intimate to Premier Lloyd George that unless the miners' claims are granted or negotiations resumed by Saturday, which will result in a settlement, we shall be compelled to take the necessary steps to instruct all our members in England, Scotland and Wales to cease work."

In addition a telegram is being dispatched to all members to be prepared to cease work at midnight of Sunday next unless they hear to the contrary.

Compromise Proposals. Proposals for a compromise agreement which might permit the miners to return to work and defer final adjustment of their grievances have been brought forward, but they have not been submitted to leaders of the Federation, so far as known. There are indications the owners of mines may be called in by Premier Lloyd George to take up the subject of increasing the production of the pits, and heads of the Miners' Federation may be asked to be present. Extremists in the federation are urging that the men left in the mines to operate the pumps and keep the diggings free from water, be withdrawn, but this step is strongly opposed by Robert Smillie and other executives of the organization.

New Conference Expected. The belief was expressed in labor circles during the forenoon that the Government would make some move within a few hours to call a fresh conference of miners and coal owners to examine the adjustment plan advanced in the House of Commons yesterday by William Bruce, Labor member of Parliament and president of the South Wales Miners' Federation.

The labor unions other than the miners, it was declared in these circles, are against an extension of the strike if there is a chance of negotiations being reopened.

No change was reported in South Wales, where the attitude of the miners is still a determined one. The only trouble chronicled was another small disturbance in the Ton-Y-Pandy area last evening.

MAN, SHOT, SHOWN BY FINGER PRINTS TO BE EX-CONVICT

Body Discovered Near Webster Groves Identified as That of Burglar Who Had Served Two Sentences.

CORONER RETURNS OPEN VERDICT

Detective Doubts Suicide Theory After Inspecting the Scene; Believes Body Was Hauled There.

The body of a man, found yesterday morning in a vacant lot north-west of the limits of Webster Groves, was identified by finger prints this afternoon as that of Robert Cole, who served a five-year term in the Jefferson City penitentiary for a burglary committed here, and who had previously served a term for a similar offense in the penitentiary at Walla Walla, Wash.

A County Coroner's jury last evening returned an open verdict, not stating whether the man had killed himself or had been killed by others. Some of the county authorities believed the man was killed elsewhere, and his body taken to the place where it was found, as the quantity of blood found at the scene was very small.

There was a theory that the man might have been one of the two who killed Detectives Moller and Anselm on Junata street, last Saturday night. The police did not seem inclined to accept this theory, even after learning that the man was a former burglar.

Detective Holds Murder Theory. Detective Walter Heitz, who took the finger prints which led to identification, was positive that the man was killed by others. The condition of his clothing and the absence of marks of suicide seemed to show this, he said.

For the finger prints had been checked up, Cole's photograph was looked up, and was found to resemble the dead man, and the description also fitted the body. Cole was arrested in St. Louis in January, 1915, and gone taken in a burglary in which he was found in possession. He pleaded guilty to burglary and served a five-year sentence at Jefferson City. It was learned at that time that he had served 18 months of an indeterminate term for burglary committed in Spokane, Wash.

Man Seen by Roadside Tuesday. George Spencer of 423 Oak avenue, Webster Groves, testified at the inquest that he saw the man, at the time he was driving on the road on Rock Hill road, not far from the place where the body was found. Spencer's dog sniffed at the man, and Spencer exchanged greetings with him. He was positive that the body was that of the man he had seen. In Coroner Denny's opinion, "in counter to the idea that the man had been killed at some distant place and his body carried to the place where it was found."

Three checks for hand baggage, at the Union Station check room, were found in the pockets, and this baggage was obtained by the local authorities of Webster Groves. Three suitcases, containing clothing, were obtained. One contained a cook's outfit, with carving knives, and the name "Robert Cole" was found on some of the garments. There were several checks for hand baggage.

Another of the suitcases was an oil worker's clothing, with stationery of the Standard Oil Co. at Carlinville, Ill. The third grip contained only soiled clothing with no marks.

The laundry marks had been removed from the clothing which the man was wearing.

ROBBER KILLED, TWO SHOT, IN HOLDUP OF AN OHIO BANK

Four of Ten Who Fail to Get Money Are Captured—Bank Clerk Badly Wounded.

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 21.—One robber was killed, two others were seriously wounded, and William Petre, bank clerk, was probably fatally wounded, when today in an automobile held up by the Cleveland Trust Co. branch bank at Bedford, 10 miles from here.

Four of the robbers were captured, the others escaping. The robbers obtained no money.

CHINESE GIRL FLIER KILLED

By the Associated Press. MENLO PARK, Cal., Oct. 21.—Frances E. Lee, a Chinese girl student aviator, was killed when she jumped from a falling airplane today, and John Courtney, pilot of the machine, suffered probably fatal injuries when the machine fell.

A wing of the machine collapsed, according to eye-witnesses.

PARSONS, BAKER AND OTHERS DRAW CHEERS FOR THE LEAGUE HERE

HARDING SAYS HE 'GLADLY ACCEPTS' ISSUE ON LEAGUE

Declares in Rochester That Referendum Does Not Blind Voters to Democrats' Domestic Failure.

CONTENDS HE HAS NOT CHANGED VIEWS

Offers Reward to Anyone Proving He Has Varied Attitude on Covenant; Back to Ohio Tonight.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Oct. 21.—Making his first speech of the campaign in New York State, Senator Harding again challenged his Democratic opponents here today to show by his public utterances where he has changed his position on the League of Nations since he accepted the Republican nomination. Restating his stand, he declares the nation "cannot take seriously the Democratic insistence that the covenant shall be considered for acceptance as it stands," and added that for much as he respected the utterances of the League of Nations, he was failing. He also asserted that he had favored consistently an international association in the interest of peace, but could not, under present conditions, frame a definite and specific plan.

"I am not that kind of candidate," he continued. "It is easy enough for a candidate who is going to lose to say almost anything about the League of Nations or any future plans for America."

Domestic Administration. "The Democratic forces have paraded before the people the utterances of our foreign relations, and we have gladly accepted, but that does not bind us to the fact that it is designed to divert attention from the unhappy failure of domestic administration. The great and solemn referendum will not make the American people forget the tragic mismanagement of their own affairs, because they have long since passed the Wilson demarcation line and we have accepted the fact that there is no hope of uniting Americans, or even a very substantial minority behind the impossible proposal that we should accept the covenant as written. The foreign nations have set their faces to the future. So must America, so must every friend of the new and better order."

"If I believed in attempting to express the purpose of the American people before being clothed with authority to consult them, if I desired to dictate to foreign nations, it would be possible for me to suggest a new league, and say to the nations of the earth and to my native countrymen: 'Take this or take nothing.' But I am not in that position, with any conscience whatever, or any sense of responsibility, could have the affront of the lack of statesmanship which would allow him to present a plan which might have to be revised because of the happenings in a rapid flow of events, or because the public opinion of America had not been consulted sufficiently."

View of Cox's Program. "I trust that it will not be improper for us to consider as a hypothesis a question where the country would find itself in regard to the League of Nations, even if my opponent were elected. The very latest corner into politics knows very well that it is numerically impossible for my opponent to obtain, whether from his party or from mine, enough votes in the Senate to make good his program."

CAUSE MUST BE PUT IN HANDS OF ITS FRIENDS, FORMER REPUBLICAN SAYS

Position of Senator Harding, He Declares, Is the Most Extraordinary One Ever Taken by the Candidate of a Great Political Party for the Presidency.

AUDIENCE FILLS DINING ROOM AT PLANTERS

100 Independents and Republicans, Among 700 Persons There, Signify They Will Vote for Cox—Other Meetings Held.

The first of an afternoon series of 10 St. Louis meetings addressed by the Pro-League Independents, Republicans who are supporting Cox and Roosevelt because of their belief in the League of Nations, began at noon today in the first-floor dining room of the Planters Hotel.

The audience filled the dining room, from which the tables had been removed, and men and women stood along the walls. The number appeared to be about 700. Former Circuit Judge Charles Cliffin Allen, a St. Louis Republican, who this week announced he is supporting Cox, presided. He called for Republicans and Independents to raise their hands, and a large number of hands, which he estimated at 100, appeared. When those intending to vote for Cox were asked to rise, nearly everyone in the room stood.

Secretary of War Baker, who is accompanying the party of Independents, Herbert G. Parsons of New York, former member of the Republican National Committee, and Capt. Thomas G. Chamberlain of San Francisco were speakers at the Planters.

Herbert Parsons' Speech. Parsons, in his speech, said: "No man who believes in parties and party organizations as I do and who for 25 years has held every position of party responsibility, we lowest to the highest in his State, leaves his party except reluctantly."

"In 140 years the United States has been in six wars, four of them with European nations, an average of a war every 23 1/2 years. The war is due in 1929. It may come somewhat earlier. It will not come much later. The children or grandchildren of every man and woman of today are certain to be engaged in one or more wars, which, according to military science, will be more dreadful than the great war."

"Nov. 2 is the one opportunity that you will have in your lifetime, probably, to cast a direct vote for the future peace of the world and you can only do it by voting for Cox, for Lincoln said in 1858 when addressing the Republican State convention in Illinois: 'Our cause must be entrusted to and conducted by its own undoubted friends.'"

Issue of Campaign. "In this campaign the Democratic candidate is for going into the league. The Republican candidate is not for going into the league. He is for 'rejection.' He talks about a new league or an association of nations. There will be no new league; there will be no association of nations. We will be in the league or no league. Senator Root does not deny the statement of Ambassador Davis that 'no responsible statesman in Europe who has the burden and the care of his government in his hands has any thought whatever of abandoning or scrapping the present League of Nations.'"

"Those of you who have read the speech of Senator Root delivered in New York two nights ago and have compared it with the covenant and the lodge reservations have observed this: Senator Root offers not a single constructive idea for the promotion of world peace that is contained in the covenant for the League of Nations. Every criticism he makes was covered by the Lodge reservations except the general complaint that the covenant did not hit up."

AMERICAN COLLEGE SHELLED

Turkish Nationalists Fighting French in Alindat Region.

By the Associated Press. AINTAB, Asia-Minor, Oct. 19.—The Turkish Nationalists who have been fighting the French in the region shelled the American College in this city today.

TIFLIS, Trans-Caucasia, Oct. 19.—The Russian soviet representative Legation today issued an ultimatum to Armenia demanding permission to transport Russian, Turkish and Tartar troops through Armenia. The ultimatum also demanded that Armenia break with the allies, reject the Wilson demarcation line and accept the provinces of Zangezur and Karabagh, which now are occupied by Tartars.

COX REPLIES TO CRITICS IN DEFENSE OF ARTICLE TEN

Explains League Council Can Only Advise by Unanimous Vote, Which Would Include Our Own.

CONGRESS FREE TO USE OWN JUDGMENT

Republicans Voted Down Proposal to Cover Sovereignty in Delaware and Maryland Today.

WILMINGTON, Del., Oct. 21.—A special drive against critics of article 10 of the League of Nations and against false criticism they are said to have uttered was made here today by Gov. Cox of Ohio.

"Nation-wide propaganda of misrepresentation" regarding article 10 has been circulated, the Democratic candidate asserted, emphasizing opinions that Congress only and not the league has authority to declare war and that the league's council's decisions must be unanimous and are merely advisory.

Gov. Cox's address here, referring especially to article 10, followed recent attacks from prominent Republicans against the league provision, and opened his Delaware and Maryland campaign. This afternoon and tonight, in the Convention Hall where President Wilson was nominated eight years ago, the Governor is to make two addresses in Baltimore.

Advice in Article Ten. The term "advise" in article 10, relative to the league council's power, was declared by Gov. Cox to be limited solely to advice. Strengthening the provision for unanimous council action, Gov. Cox said:

"We should never in the haze of warring statements and warring pronouncements lose sight of the incontrovertible fact, that, under article 10 the council can render only advice. And that even this action cannot be taken unless and until every representative of the league has voted in the affirmative."

One of the Hitchcock reservations "voted down by the treaty wreckers" declared that no American sovereignty was relinquished.

Explaining the league's operations, Gov. Cox said that cancellation of a joint diplomatic note to all law-abiding nations in condemnation of any offending nation, severance of diplomatic relations or an economic boycott would be means employed before consideration of more "drastic measures." Even then, he contended, "congressional approval would be required."

"Not until every other method had failed would there be any need for ever considering drastic measures," the Governor continued. "But if it be contended that a desperate crisis might arise, such as that which threatened the world in 1914, then the council would sit in special conference. If all the representatives on the council were agreed that to meet the situation it was necessary to employ other means, then it would be empowered to make such a recommendation. Our representatives would cable the facts of the case, together with the unanimous resolution of recommendation, to the President, who in time would lay both the facts and the council's advice before the Congress, together with his own recommendation. Congress would then determine its course of action in the circumstances, precisely as it does now."

Isolation as a Remedy. "Isolation, economic and otherwise, for any nation, the Governor argued, would go a long way toward preventing hostilities."

"It is extremely doubtful," he said, "if any nation would have the temerity to fly in the face of outraged public opinion of the whole world and it is a moral certainty that no nation would be so foolhardy as to go to live, let alone carry on, a state of warfare, in economic isolation."

"Some may say that if the council has no authority to order military action into the field in defense of the world, the peace of the world would be no better secured with the league than without it. Such an inference would be entirely at variance with experience. Earl Grey, then the British Secretary for Foreign Affairs, said in 1914 that if, at the critical days of July and August, he could have got the statement of the great powers around a table in conference for nine days or ten hours, the world war could have been averted."

FOOD GIVEN MAC SWINEY UNION MAN'S SLAYER DURING HIS DELIRIUM IS HELD BY CORONER

"They Tricked Me," He Is Reported to Have Said on Regaining Consciousness.

By the Associated Press. LONDON, Oct. 21.—Official confirmation came from two sources this morning of the reports that Lord Mayor MacSwiney of Cork had been fed during a period of unconsciousness.

The bulletin of the Irish Self-Determination League, dealing with the condition of the Lord Mayor on the seventh day of his hunger strike in Brixton Prison, announced that the prison doctors had forced meat food into MacSwiney's mouth during a fit of delirium which the prisoner suffered last night.

From the Government side, it was stated at the Home Office that the Lord Mayor had been fed last night. It was explained there that when the Lord Mayor was unconscious, the prison doctors had forced meat food into his mouth.

The Self-Determination League's account of the feeding said that the Lord Mayor upon regaining consciousness, detected the taste of the meat food and said to a sister near him:

"They tricked me, and I didn't know it."

Before lapsing into unconsciousness again, continued the account, the Lord Mayor waved his arms violently and shouted:

"Take it away."

Lord Mayor MacSwiney was delirious during virtually all last night, the league bulletin declared. The delirium for the greater part of the time took a violent form. The bulletin concluded:

"It should be made clear that the meat food given the Lord Mayor during his delirium on the sixth night of his fast was the first nourishment which had passed his lips since his arrest on Aug. 12."

The British prison officials continued today to put liquid nutriment in Lord Mayor MacSwiney's mouth during his periods of delirium, it was declared in the noon bulletin of the Irish Self-Determination League.

The bulletin stated the Lord Mayor remained in a delirious condition all the morning, at times being violent. His limbs, it was said, worked spasmodically all the time. He was momentarily calm when the bulletin was issued.

JOHNSON WOULD FAVOR 'INTERNATIONAL FORUM'

But Open Discussion of World Problems Would Be Limited; 'Harding Against League.'

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Senator Hiram Johnson of California, "League irreconcilable" today made a statement at Republican national headquarters here, in which he said he would be "delighted" to establish an "international forum" where, in the open, there would be a full discussion of international problems which might form public opinion and thus tend to prevent war.

"I do not at present see how it is possible to go beyond this," said the Senator, who made this statement in reiterating his interpretation of Senator Harding's stand as one of rejecting the League of Nations.

"The issue of this campaign is the League of Nations—a specific, concrete contract, and not the efforts and endeavors of civilized people to end wars," he continued. "To some persons party regularly transcends an important principle."

He added that, if he were a candidate for the presidency, he would not appreciate efforts to interpret his stand as other than that his back was to the wall.

The Senator predicted an overwhelming Republican victory in California.

SECOND LIQUOR CHARGE AGAINST NATIONAL CAFE PROPRIETOR

Warrants charging violation of the Volstead act were issued today against Charles Connor and Fred Fuenger, proprietor and bartender, respectively, of the National Cafe, 117 North Sixth street.

The night in jail after, it was alleged, he had sold two drinks of whiskey to a man who was under arrest for a violation of the prohibition enforcement act, Connor was not present last night, and his arrest was ordered today, following the issuance of the warrants.

This is the second offense charged against the men under the Volstead act. They were arrested Aug. 14 on a charge of having whiskey in their home when Federal officers found a high concentration in the kitchen at behind the bar.

League was made in the course of a speech at a Republican barbecue here attended by people from Southern Ohio and neighboring states.

Attacks Phrase-Makers. The nominee attacked the Democratic party as a party of "phrase-makers" and praised the Republican protective policy as an example of constructive "performance" under Republican guidance.

In his discussion of the tariff the candidate made particular reference to the iron and steel industry as an instance of helpful development under protection. He called attention to the Southern Tariff Congress recently held at New Orleans and added:

"They weren't quite ready to accept the doctrine of tariff protection. They took the first step toward emancipation from paralyzing democracy."

Detailing the provisions of the Cummins-Esch law, Harding said it not only contained a "new bill of rights for labor," but offered a means of improving the coal situation by authorizing the Interstate Commerce Commission to insure an equitable distribution of cars.

"That's the Cummins-Esch bill," he continued. "I know it is not enforced, but that's not a very surprising thing under the present administration. The Interstate Commerce Commission took it upon itself to set the law aside and if I were President I'd set aside the Interstate Commerce Commission that did it."

TUMULTY CITES "PROOF" OF TAFT'S SHIFT ON LEAGUE

Former President Presided at Meeting Issuing Statement Indorsing Covenant as "Thoroughly American."

MESSAGE SENT TO ST. LOUIS CONFERENCE

President's Secretary Uses Telegram in Speech; Democrats Get Cheering News From Many Sources.

By the Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—In further proof that former President Taft has shifted his position on the League of Nations under the pressure of party expediency, Secretary Tumulty at the White House today gave out a copy of a telegram received by Herbert S. Houston, publisher of the World's Work, while he was in St. Louis, May 1, 1919, attending a conference of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

Quoting from the St. Louis Globe-Democrat of May 2, Tumulty said, the telegram was in the form of a statement prepared by Taft, President Lowell of Harvard and other members of the Executive Committee of the League to Enforce Peace, then holding a meeting in New York.

The Globe-Democrat news story regarding the telegram said that it meant a definite challenge of "this league or none" from Mr. Taft. The telegram as reproduced in the Globe-Democrat was as follows:

Text of Telegram. Herbert S. Houston, Hotel Statler, St. Louis: The following press statement was issued tonight by the Emergency Campaign Committee, Mr. Taft presiding.

The covenant for a League of Nations in amended form, adopted by the Paris peace conference, should satisfy all those who oppose any league whatever. It is now a thoroughly American instrument, thoroughly American and thoroughly nonpartisan.

The recent amendments include more important changes proposed by leaders of the Republican party. The covenant asks the American people to surrender neither their honor nor their independence, nor their dominant position in the new world. It involves no obligations that we should not be ready to assume to lessen the danger of future wars. Opponents must now

SALOON KEEPER DISAPPEARS AFTER ARREST OF BARTENDER

R. A. Barnes Not Seen at Hotel Where He Has Been Living or Place of Business Since Sunday. Search is being made by the police for Radley A. Barnes, 21 years old, formerly of Hopkinsville, Ky., who recently bought a soft-drink saloon at 1401 Pine street and disappeared Sunday after his bartender was arrested for being drunk.

Barnes recently inherited $3500, which he deposited in a local bank. He drew $800 and paid Harry Finckelstein $700 for the soft-drink place, and hired a bartender named Murphy. When Murphy was under arrest the place was closed, but when he was released he reopened it.

Barnes, who has been staying at the Lexington Hotel, Thirteenth and Market streets, had dinner Sunday evening with Helen Billar of 1509 Hickory street. Since then he has not been seen by his acquaintances or at his place of business. The police think that he became alarmed when the bartender was arrested and is hiding out. He still has $1400 at the bank.

show their true colors. The old argument, "We are free a league, but not the league" will no longer serve. The issue now is "The league or none." The fate of the covenant rests with the American people, while the Senate has power to ratify, to amend or to reject it. To amend it is to require reconsideration by all the nations parties to it and to postpone peace indefinitely.

(Signed.) A. P. AMES, Chairman of the Committee on Information.

Used Message in Speech. Tumulty made the telegram a feature of a campaign speech which he delivered last night at Poolesville, Md. Marked optimism pervaded the White House this morning following the receipt of telegrams from party leaders in New Jersey, Indiana and Connecticut predicting Democratic success in those States.

Homers S. Cummings, former chairman of the Democratic National Committee, now on tour of the West, contributed an optimistic letter from Kansas City with an inclosure from a Kansas who said the tide had turned in his State.

Another message from the special train carrying speakers on the League of Nations. The receipt of all these messages at about the same time had a heartening effect.

"The break has come," said Tumulty.

REED TO GO TO WISCONSIN TO SPEAK FOR LA FOLLETTE MAN

Three Addresses There Aimed at Defeat of Lenroot and His Democratic Opponent.

SPECIAL TO THE POST-DISPATCH. KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 21.—Senator Reed announced last night that he would leave immediately after the Convention Hall meeting tonight for Wisconsin, where he is billed to make three speeches for the independent Republican candidate for the United States Senate, the Wisconsin campaign the Senator will speak at Omaha next Tuesday night.

The Wisconsin speeches are aimed at the defeat of both the Democratic candidate for the Senate, who is a pro-League, and Senator Lenroot, Republican incumbent, who is a well-known reservation leader. Reed will Thompson, who is being backed by Senator La Follette of the irreconcilable group.

ACCIDENT VERDICT IN DEATH OF AUTOMOBILE PASSENGER

Victim Was Riding in Motor Car Struck by Page Avenue Street Car.

A Coroner's verdict of accident was returned today in the death of Joseph Clayton, 37 years old, of 1110A Market street, from injuries received Tuesday at 9:55 p. m. when an automobile in which he was a passenger was struck by a Page car at Fifteenth street and Washington avenue.

The automobile, driven by Mai Levy, 5769 Kingsbury boulevard, was going west and Levy tried to turn into Fifteenth street in front of an east-bound car. The Rev. D. Emmet Snyder of Crown Point, Ind., testified that the car was going "faster than usual." Irwin Fawcett of 2213 North Tenth street, testified that it was going 30 to 40 miles an hour.

Arthur Potts, 34, of 4 South Eleventh street, another passenger in the automobile, is at the city hospital with a fractured skull.

CONTRACTOR - IN BANKRUPTCY

R. A. Anderson Liable Liabilities of $26,019.

Liabilities of $26,019.53 and assets, on which exemption is claimed, totaling $100, were listed in a voluntary petition in bankruptcy filed yesterday by Robert A. Anderson of 4565 Enright avenue, a contractor and builder.

Included in the schedule of liabilities are the following items: City taxes, $129.74; judgment on bond in favor of the United States Fidelity and Guaranty Co., $5000; and court costs; Circuit Court judgment in favor of the Widmer Engineering Co., $18,453.17 and costs; Steel Hardware Co., Wichita, Kan., $191.68; Carl G. Lionberger, 2543 Arlington avenue, balance due under settlement, $180; Jacob Schaefer Corporation, $355; Seneca C. Taylor, for legal services in the last two years, $250; Frank X. Hackman, 1000 Chestnut street, for services in connection with real estate deals, $240; and I. Segel, 511 Central National Bank Building, for money advanced, $240. The assets consist wholly of household effects, wearing apparel and a watch.

BARGE SERVICE ANNOUNCE ROUTE TO PACIFIC

Establishment of From Here to Los Angeles Only City Coast to Have Service

CHARGES TO BE KNOWN IN FE

Local Shippers Will Advantage of Rate Than Those From York via Panama

The Government River which is the barge line Mississippi River between and New Orleans, will the next few days a rate offers to St. Louis shippers by water to the Pacific at rates much lower than in some cases lower water rates from New York Pacific Coast.

The announcement is a great commercial import to St. Louis because at this time competitors are threatening a commercial foothold on the Pacific coast through the Panama Canal, which would result in the only city, not on the coast or the gulf, which communication with the coast, an advantage the city which becomes apparent in the Pacific route from New York Francisco has been the transcontinental rail rates, stability of such a water route of St. Louis to this city and the Mississippi for the first time the construction of the Panama.

New Route to Coast

The new water route the barge line has been made by the resumption, a years of cessation, of sailing the port of New Orleans and New York via the Pacific. The barge line, which has been re-established, will be a boon to the Western shippers, who have been complaining that they had to buy cheaper from Eastern shippers who are enabled to ship their products by the coast.

Difference in Rates

The all-rail rate from St. Louis to the Pacific coast on drugs is $2.66. Eastern shippers from New York to St. Louis via the coast, St. Louis rail rate on less loads is $3.56, while the water rate is $3.20. The difference is sufficient to imperil drug trade upon the coast.

The new rates by the barge line tend to restore the parity between this city and New York. The rate from St. Louis to the coast on cargo drugs is $2.44, or less than the rate from New York to the coast at $2.94. Thus, while the rate is slightly more than the York water rate, the less load rate is less.

The further benefit of the route is made apparent when an examiner's report of the Interstate Commerce Commission recently made, recommends adjustment of transcontinental rates on a basis that will make the rate on drugs from St. Louis to the Pacific Coast $4.50 on a $5.50 on less than cargo loads. The new water-rate is less than those rates. The dry hardware industries, both most important to this city, are similarly affected.

Effect on Shipments

The new water rate a special on eastbound ship St. Louis wholesale grocers high rate to bring water-canned goods to this cheap route now is open.

A comparison of the rates with present rail rates shows that the water route into this market from the coast is $1.60. The rates are as follows:

Alum.	.....	$1.60
Bagging	.....	1.42
Dried beans	.....	1.35
Canned fruits	.....	1.42
Dried fruits	.....	1.42

New York has the exclusive water route to the coast and has profited by its far-reaching effect of station is indicated by the in the past it has been shippers, even as far as St. Louis, and some from New York by rail, the water route to San Francisco is cheaper than the rate from St. Louis to the coast. The establishment of a water route of water rates from New York to the coast of New York means more closely with what had been done towards attempting to develop international law. Yet Senator Root showed by his actions that in his judgment the present league was the only league possible when he accepted the invitation to meet those whose duty it was to formulate and submit to the members of the league for adoption plans for the establishment of a permanent court of international justice, called for by article 14 of the covenant for the League of Nations.

ADDRESS MEETINGS IN ST. LOUIS FOR LEAGUE

Old River Men Skeptical.

Old river men, clinging loyally to the stern-wheeler, have expressed quite positive doubts of the ability of the new craft to maneuver. They believe that the tunnel-type will not back with power or with precision of direction, and will be more or less unmanageable on the river bend which stern-wheelers flank with graceful ease.

Leadership Demanded.

"The situation in the Republican party on this matter is of two opposite elements with absolutely conflicting views. There is the Root element and there is the Borah-Johnson irreconcilable element. Harding is fooling one of them. Which? Harding will not need Root after Nov. 2. Or perhaps I had better say he will need Johnson and Borah. They are in the Senate. Root is not. They are needed to control the Senate. Root is not. They have shown by their acts that they don't yield. Harding has shown by his acts that he has no convictions and only two objects—namely, election and normalcy, which means absence of trouble. He can only have this normalcy one way, and that is by yielding to the Borah-Johnson position.

"The cause of world peace, the cause of the League of Nations, can lead a cause. He can kill it where delay will kill it. Four years hence people's recollections of the war will be faint. It will not be possible to rouse them to action to prevent a war, though it is to come in another decade or so. It is now or never. No person anxious to do his duty or her bit for world peace can afford to take the risk of voting for Harding. The vote of every Republican who votes for Harding except possibly the vote of the eminent '31' will be counted a vote against the league. The irreconcilables and the elements that are opposed to the league and wish it 'scrapped' and are going to vote for Harding in the Maine election.

Women Define Their Fight as Only Against "Ring Control"

MRS. MIRIAM SENNEBY, independent president of the St. Louis League of Women Voters, writing for the Board of Presidents, in a letter yesterday to the Women's Republican Club, defined the issue of the fight against Judge Karl Kimmel and Associate City Counselor William H. Killebrew. Republican nominees for circuit judgeships, and Judge Chauncey J. Krueger, Republican nominee for re-election as Judge of Division No. 2, Court of Criminal Correction, as only against "ring control" of the courts and not against the men or their records.

The letter is an appeal for support of members of the Women's Republican Club, and is as follows:

"The League of Women Voters are conducting a campaign against the 'ring' control of city courts and are appealing to women to use their new political power for a nonpartisan judiciary.

"The attack is being made strictly on this issue, and is in no way directed against the 'ring' candidates as individuals, nor is it based upon their past records. The crime wave which is now sweeping St. Louis calls imperatively for action.

"Of course, it is realized that as the Republican organization you desire the election of a Republican ticket. However, since women were unable to register their choice at the primaries, we feel that the Republican women must work with the League of Women Voters in this fight against the 'ring control'.

"Therefore, since we know against them in the League of Women Voters was a choice morsel for comment among the women leaders of the movement. They were amused at the haste of the 'K's' seeking the assistance of the sex that has so recently come into power with the ballot.

"The plea of these men to be rescued by women was thoroughly at home, said Miss Myrtle B. Wood, an attorney, who is conducting the campaign under the direction of Mrs. E. T. Senneby, independent president of the St. Louis League of Women Voters.

Address at Y. W. C. A.

Miss Wood addressed a meeting of one of the Wednesday Night clubs of the Y. W. C. A. at the Y. W. C. A. building, 1411 Locust street, last evening. The audience was composed of about 35 young women voters, who had assembled with their embrodered and "knitting" in a large room on the parlor floor.

It was a colorful and rather extraordinary setting for a political informal. The young women, hatted and made up thoroughly at home, sat in a hollow square about the speaker, Miss Alice D. Brooks, and while awaiting the speakers, chatted of things mysterious to mortal man and entirely foreign to the great political issues of the day.

But when the business of the meeting was stated and sample ballots and copies of the 15 propositions were handed around, embrodering and knitting were laid aside and all became attentively quiet.

Mrs. Charles L. Passmore elucidated the mysteries of voting, distributed Republican literature and made an encouraging talk in behalf of the propositions. She was asked to and did explain the workmen's compensation proposition at length.

Miss Wood followed with four minutes of concise and effective instruction on how to "clean the courts by killing the K's." She told of the preliminary fight of the Republican baseball Francis took Parsons, Secretary Baker went with James E. Smith, Prof. Fisher, W. F. Carter, Col. Whittlesey with Senter and Capt. Gillin with George M. Block.

Military Men in Party.

Of the military men aboard, Col. Whittlesey is the most widely known, but both Capt. Chamberlain and Capt. Gillin have military records. Chamberlain was at the front in France for a year, for the most part with the First Division. He accompanied the United States military tour in 1919 in behalf of the League of Nations, and stood for election to the Republican national convention as a Hoover delegate.

"Gillin participated as a sailor in the Spanish revolution in 1917, the Turkish-Bulgarian war of 1912, the bandit outbreak at Bluefields, Nicaragua, 1911-1912, and the landing in Vera Cruz in 1914, besides service with the Second and Fourth Divisions in France, in which he was wounded in July, 1918. He is chairman of the National Disabled Soldiers' League and was a member of the Leonard Wood pre-convention campaign committee.

Secretary Baker is with the party at the request of Parsons and Fisher to supply accurate information about the cost of armament to the United States in the event the nation does not enter the league.

Prof. Fisher, probably the best known member of the party, is a former St. Louisan, having graduated from Smith academy, preparatory department of Washington University.

After Des Moines, other cities to be visited by the party are Omaha, Denver, Salt Lake City, Butte, Spokane, Portland, Ore., San Francisco and Los Angeles where the tour ends the night before the election, Nov. 2. Members of the party will lose their votes, as they will be crossing New Mexico and Arizona on their return trip east, election day.

Frocks Are Interesting

When the Style Is Splendid and the Price Is $39.75

IT is hardly feminine not to appreciate a bargain and not to be highly elated over the possession of a distinctively modish frock. Enthusiasm is indeed well placed when a Dress from this group receives it.

The Dresses are of satin material in overskirt or side panel styles. Often moire, ribbon, pleats, jet or bead ornaments give these Frocks the necessary contrasting touch.

What better answer to the feminine demand of the moment?

Items of Interest*An Air of Restfulness Pervades

—the room which is lighted by a pair of wonderful old candlesticks, or lamps, instead of a glaring central light. The soft mellow rays hold within them a kind of charm which makes you feel that the whole world is at rest. They send through the room a comfortable coziness which is irresistible. There are many different styles from which to choose—surely there is a pair here which will harmonize with your living room. There is an interesting pair of lamps made of wood with twisted shaft and plain saucer base. A most unusual finish is applied to resemble tarnished old silver with a rich shade of blue in relief.

Lamps Which Portray the Rulers of Old

ANOTHER new and most distinguished lamp standard is made of heavy antique silver plate resting on a saucer base, ornamented to interpret the figures of the rulers of olden days, outlined with a mythological scroll. The motif is an old museum piece. Resting on a beautiful mahogany table, is there anything more beautiful which could send out such a pleasing, restful atmosphere?

Skilled Artisans in Iron
Skilled artisans in ironwork have wrought candlesticks, candelabras and lamp standards gorgeous in design and coloring, showing a marked Italian influence. Old gold, old blue and antique red blend harmoniously into the designing and fashion an exquisite work of art.

A Pair of Candelabras
ON the mantel there should be a pair of unusual candelabras to add to the setting an artistic appeal. Truly lovely is this pair, created of metal with spangles of flat crystal prisms of cut glass attached to metal branches. Quaint and unusual in every way, they add a truly artistic touch.

RATS, MICE, COCKROACHES MUST BE KILLED

To Help Prevent the Spread of Diseases From Infected Places.

The Federal, State and Municipal authorities throughout the entire country have decided that the people everywhere must co-operate in the killing of rats, mice, cockroaches, waterbugs, ants and other pests.

It has been scientifically proven that the above mentioned pests are directly responsible for the spreading of Bubonic Plague and other dreadful diseases from infected places. During the past years millions of boxes of STEARNS' ELECTRIC PASTE have been used successfully for the killing of rats, mice, cockroaches, etc.

Get a box now of this guaranteed exterminator and use it according to directions which are printed in 15 languages. It is ready for use; better than traps; does not blow into the food like poisons; 5 ounce box 35c; 15 ounce box $1.00; should be enough to kill from 50 to 400 rats. For over 15 years U. S. Government authorities have been repeating their orders for both sides of STEARNS' ELECTRIC RAT AND ROACH PASTE.

SIX MEN ON TRIAL BEFORE JURY UNDER OLD LIQUOR LAW

Those Arrested After Still
Was Found in Raid on Wilson Avenue Accused
Under Revenue Statute.

THREE ACQUITTED IN WAR-TIME LAW CASE

They Will Be Tried Later
Under the Old Laws Regulating the Setting Up and Registering of a Still.

Six men, the pioneer moonshine defendants of the prohibition period, went to trial today before a jury in the United States District Court, under the old internal revenue act, which is applicable to any offense committed before the Volstead prohibition enforcement act went into effect Jan. 16 last.

The men were arrested last November at 5033-35 Wilson avenue, and a still and a quantity of material for the making of raisin whiskey or brandy were confiscated. The defendants are Sebastian and John Coco, Mike Grasso, Ben Garavelli, Vincent Cantelli and Vincent Pugliese. The still was not in operation when the raid was made, but was so hot that the internal revenue officers had to wet it down with a hose before they could handle it.

First Raid of the Period.
This was the first still raided under the prohibition regime, and the raid was made before the internal revenue officers had been supplanted by special prohibition enforcement officers.

If this case goes to the jury, it will be the first case in which a jury has passed on a charge of this character here. Of the cases brought under the Volstead law, none has thus far gone to a jury, but all have been settled by pleas.

The minimum punishment under the old revenue law is 30 days in jail, and the maximum is two years' imprisonment and $1000 fine.

Three Others Acquitted.
Three men, who went to trial yesterday afternoon on the charge of violating the wartime prohibition act, by distilling raisin whiskey, were acquitted of that charge by Judge Faris' order, after the Judge sustained a demurrer to the indictment. They will be tried next week on other indictments, which charge violation of the old revenue laws, and which carry a penalty of imprisonment as high as two years, or a fine of $1000, or both. The penalty under the wartime prohibition act is not more than six months in jail and $1000 fine.

These three defendants are Paul Raffalo, Joe Leone and Faustel Salvinio, who were arrested Dec. 7 last at 1125 Locust street.

The information on which the men first went to trial charges them with violating the wartime prohibition act by setting up a still and manufacturing raisin brandy with more than 1/2 of 1 per cent alcoholic content. Judge Faris said there could be no conviction under the wartime law unless it were charged that cereals, grains or fruits were used in violation of the terms of that law. As that definite charge had not been made, he sustained the demurrer.

In the indictments under which they will now be tried, they are charged with setting up a still without registering it legally, and having mash for distillation, contrary to the old revenue law.

Locomotive Explodes, 3 Trainmen Killed

BATAVIA, N. Y., Oct. 21.—Three trainmen were killed when the boiler of a New York Central Railroad engine exploded a mile east of here today. William J. Cobb of Buffalo, engineer, and fireman Walkin, died instantly and a student fireman died on the way to a hospital.

regularly $8.50 to $15

The story is worth the telling. We have used our purchasing power, our resources and our outlet in a deliberate effort to offer you unbeatable values in Autumn and Winter millinery. To do this it was necessary to buy one thousand Hats. It was only on such a quantity would the New York milliners get down to brass tacks and skim their prices. Furthermore, to achieve the object, namely, another contribution towards lowering the cost of things, we are making almost no profit at all on these Hats.

The event is an amazing demonstration of values.

"Chris, who is that girl?"

What had the old servant told her mistress?

Who was she ?

Why did the proud old family eagerly accept the pretty salesgirl?

How a "flapper" looks to a woman of ninety

A woman of ninety, who has seen four generations of flappers, encounters the irrepressible young woman of 1920!

In Mrs. Harland's youth, the properly brought up young woman blushed—today it would take a hardy blush to penetrate the "complexion" that is so universally worn. Then it was genteel to faint—now it is sporting to face anything with a nonchalance of a receiving teller.

Off they rush in their too short skirts and their too low waists dabbing on their complexions as they go. "Self-expression" leads them to strange extremes but this young woman of ninety finds it in her heart to love and understand them.

She tells why in the November Pictorial Review.

A group of unusual short stories

Here are six real stories—six stories! Every one of them vivid, unusual—the type of short story you have come to expect in Pictorial Review.

A story of suppressed desires. Read "Lucy Moon" by Hugh Walpole.

A story of the circus. Read "The Simp" by Courtney Ryley Cooper.

A sparkling tale of adventure. Read "A King of Paris" by H. Collinson Owen.

A story of overwhelming passions. Read "Second Hand" by G. Ranger Wormser.

A rollicking yarn of the sea. Read "A Whale of a Story" by Richard Matthews Hallett.

The story of a striker's wife. Read "Paying the Piper" by Charles Caldwell Dobie.

A mystery story of New York society by Kathleen Norris

SOBGING, broken, the grand old lady begged her children not to question her—just to accept the girl.

Accept this pretty little nobody from a book store counter—they, one of the proudest, one of the wealthiest of all New York's old families!

Take her from the shop, from the obscure apartment where she lived with their old servant—into the envied citadel of their exquisitely formal lives!

What would people say? What would they think?

Was that hushed family scandal lifting its head again? Unbelievable, intolerable—its price had been paid years ago!

Kathleen Norris takes you into the life of New York's Four Hundred. Brilliant, intimate, powerfully written, it is a revealing portrait of the young society girl of today—the sober world of work—and through it all that baffling entangling question—to whom did the girl belong?

Two women knew—and would not speak. Two men rushed blindly on, loving her—the cultured sensitive gentlemen and the earnest young mechanic. Where could she find happiness, this girl with the conflicting blood of two worlds in her veins?

"THE BELOVED WOMAN"

by Kathleen Norris

Begins in this issue

Was John Cummings justified in leaving his wife?

She was a good woman. She was kind to her children. And she was a perfect housekeeper. Even had handstitched hems on all her curtains. Kept her home spick and span. And yet John went. Why did he go away with that other woman? Just what made him desert his wife? John said she was such a good housekeeper she didn't know how to make a home. He wanted companionship.

But he had to go out to get it.

Now before you get mad with John read what Montanye Perry says about him. Mrs. Perry has been keeping tabs on the neighbors in her own town, and she isn't quite sure that John wasn't halfway right.

There's an awful jolt for a lot of "good" wives in her article in Pictorial Review for November entitled "When is a wife not a wife?"

Do you know where the waist-line will be this winter?

Do you know the proper width for skirts?

The November Pictorial Review contains the forecast of Winter fashions. The newest and most charming styles are shown, with descriptions of the favored fabrics and valuable little hints concerning trimming and accessories.

This is to be a season of straight lines and gay embroideries. The moyen-age dress, with its simple lines and long waist-line promises to hold the first place in the popular favor.

One of the most noticeable features of the new styles is the lavish use of vivid, "peasant" embroideries, charming designs that enliven the simplest frock.

There is a Pictorial Review pattern to reproduce exactly all the styles you like best.

11 COMMUNITY CENTERS OPEN FOR THE SEASON

Dancing to Be Held Six Nights a Week at Two—Others
Open Three Nights.

The 11 community centers operated under the direction of the Park Department have opened for the fall and winter season. At the opening of the largest, known as the Grand Center, Grand and Vista avenues, last Monday night, there was an attendance of 1500. This center will be open six nights a week and dancing by persons more than 16 years old will be permitted. The city furnishes the music. Girls pay 15 cents admission and boys 20 cents.

The Mullanphy Center, at Ninth and Mullanphy streets, also will open six nights a week, admission to dances being 5 cents for girls and 10 cents for boys. At the nine other centers, all in public school buildings, the admission to dances will be the same as at the Mullanphy. They will be open three nights a week. They are the Mark Twain, Queens and Harney avenues; Ashland, Newstead and Sacramento avenues; Glasgow, Sheridan and Garrison avenues; Grover Cleveland, Virginia avenue and Osceola street; Shepard, Potomac street and Wisconsin avenue; Shaw, Macklind and Columbia avenues; Oak Hill, Morganford road and Osceola street; Gardenville, King's highway and Gravois avenue, and the Rose Fanning, McDonald and Grace avenues.

In addition to the dancing there are needlework and domestic science classes and provisions for basket ball and other sports. The total attendance at the community centers last year was 99,750.

BOYS, 11 AND 8, SEEK PARENTS

Wilbur and Lester Vandergriff, 11 and 8 years old, were turned over to the police last night by Joseph Bone of 1012 South Eighth street, who asked that they be cared for and an effort made to find their parents.

The boys up to the first part of the week had been living at Washington, Mo., with their father. They were sent here to their mother, who had been living at 1032 South Eighth street. Two weeks ago she moved and left word she was going to Farmington, Mo. When the boys arrived they were cared for by neighbors, who tried to get in communication with their parents. Failing in this, Bone appealed to the police. Inquiry at Washington, police say, revealed last night the father had moved from there since the boys came to the city.

TWO BOYS HURT BY STREET CAR

Wagon Driven on Tracks When Lads Lost Control of Horse.

Gerhardt Kersens, 10 years old, of 4457 Manchester avenue, and Jacob Gold, 11, 3301 Market street, were injured seriously yesterday when a wagon driven by the former was upset by a Market car in front of 2105 Market street. The boy lost control of the horse and the front wheel of the wagon was pulled onto the westbound car tracks.

Gerhardt was taken unconscious to the city hospital where doctors said he had suffered a fractured skull and scalp wounds. Jacob ran to his home, where he collapsed and was taken to the hospital. Doctors said he had sustained a probable fracture of the skull.

CARL WANDERER, ON STAND, DENIES HE KILLED HIS WIFE

Declares Confession Was Wrung From Him by Officers Who Stamped on His Feet and Hit Him in Face.

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—Carl Wanderer, testifying in his own defense in the trial for the murder of his wife, yesterday declared he was innocent and repudiated the signed statement made to police, in which he confessed slaying his wife, their unborn child, and a vagabond, whom he said was hired to stage a mimic holdup and thus divert suspicion from himself. He said the confession was wrung from him by "bullying and violence" and that he made it "so the detectives would let him alone and let him get a little sleep."

Before Wanderer took the stand Dr. William Hickson, head of the Psychopathic Hospital, testified the defendant was insane and had the mind of a 10-year-old child. He was insane at the time of the murder and when he made the confession, Dr. Hickson said he believed.

Wanderer entered the courtroom humming an Irish love ballad. At no time during the three hours he was on the stand did he hesitate in answering questions.

He repeated the original version of the shooting of his wife by the tramp and the slaying of the hobo, telling almost word for word the story given the police the day of the affair and which made him a hero until he was arrested, charged with murder.

"Ruth (his wife) and I went to a picture show," he said. "On the way back I noticed a ragged stranger following us, but thought little of it until later when I recognized him as the man I had shot. Ruth went into the vestibule in the hallway ahead of me. I could see the outlines of a man, but before I could do anything he began firing. I drew my revolver and emptied it in his direction."

"Did you shoot?" asked one of Wanderer's counsel.

"I shot in the direction of the man," he replied.

"Did you shoot your wife?"

"No, sir; I did not shoot my wife," said Wanderer.

Wanderer then told how his mother-in-law had come to the door and found him astride the stranger, beating him with a gun.

"I said, 'rush her to the hospital and take the ring off.' I wanted the ring taken off because it was loose."

Wanderer then told of his arrest and the confession. Coroner Hoffman, he said, threatened him and "tried to work on my emotions."

"He told me the spirit of Ruth was hovering over me," said Wanderer.

"He asked me if I couldn't see Ruth and the baby there above me. Other officers shook their fists under my face. One stamped on my foot and broke a bone in it. Another hit me in the nose until it bled. I saved the bloody clothes to offer as evidence, but they were stolen from my cell."

"Hoffman repeatedly said to me: 'Carl, you know you shot your wife and this stranger and that you paid him to stage a holdup so it would look like you had shot in self-defense and killed her accidentally. You know you were tired of married life and wanted to go back into the army. Finally I was all in. I wanted rest. I wanted peace and quiet. I thought of the fake holdup idea and wove my story around it. I confessed to escape their bullying and violence.'"

Under cross-examination by the State, Wanderer said he did not remember saying he was making the confession of his own free will or saying he understood it could be used against him.

Wanderer next told of serving in France and Germany as a Lieutenant with the American Expeditionary forces and in reply to questions from his attorneys said he had been hit in the head with a baseball while overseas and that his head also had been injured when he fell off a horse.

Questioned about the two pistols found at the scene of the shooting, each an army revolver, he said he "had lied at the Coroner's inquest" when he denied knowledge of the ship of this pistol that Wanderer was a stranger's weapon. He recognized it as his cousin's, he said, and "lied to protect Cousin Fred."

It was through tracing the owner-

PHILADELPHIA POLICE SEEK DEAD STUDENT'S FRIEND

Old Grudge May Have Caused Killing of Dartmouth Senior, Theory Now.

By the Associated Press.
PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 21.—The police today continued their search for the student of a local school from whom they hope to obtain information regarding the movements of Elmer C. Drewes, Dartmouth College senior, from the time he left his home here late Saturday night until he met his death. His body, with a bullet through the temple, was found Sunday morning propped against a lamppost in the outskirts of the city.

The young man, according to the authorities, was a close friend of Drewes, and it was from him that Drewes planned to buy an automobile. His name has not been made public, but Maj. S. O. Wynne, chief of the county detectives, said his family was well known. The young man, Wynne declared, has not attended classes since last week.
The latest theory of the police is that an old grudge might have been the motive for the killing.

REPUBLICAN WOMEN
PRO-LEAGUE SPEAKERS

Miss Anne Macilvaine and Mrs. Lucia Ames Mead Converted by Faith in Covenant.

Miss Anne Macilvaine, for eight years a vice president of the National Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage and one of a family for many generations Republican, owes her conversion to belief in woman suffrage and her appearance on the pro-league special as a Democratic campaigner to her pronounced faith in the League of Nations. She explains her new stand on suffrage, quoting a remark of President Wilson in which she found herself in accord. "What the world needs now is the influence and the power of women to help in the establishment of Christianity and humanity for the whole world."

The great question for women to decide today, she said, is: "Are women going to be bigger than the party politicians and see that the question of Christianity and humanity for the entire world and not merely a party issue is at stake? This is woman's great opportunity, for whether or not we shall be a member of the League of Nations is the greatest question to be decided since the signing of the Constitution, since the league provides not merely for our liberty but the liberty of the entire world."

Battlefield Argument for League.
Miss Macilvaine's belief in the league was strengthened upon a visit to the battle fields, to Italy, France and England, where in all her travels she heard never a word of protest, never a criticism or question as to the righteousness of the league covenant. In England she said she encountered profound mystification and the oft-repeated question, "We cannot understand how your country could have put before us this high ideal, and now seem to repudiate it." She said she was constantly called upon to explain that it was merely a political controversy in this country. She further said that from her own observation over there the league is already functioning; that it already has accomplished much in stemming the opium traffic, the white slave traffic, and has prevented one war, and possibly averted another. She had much to tell of observations of American administration in the West Indies, where she also visited recently, was thrilled with the splendid altruistic work being done there against extreme difficulties, and was shocked upon returning to find the Republican party back of a campaign of criticism and slurs at the splendid marines.

Mrs. Lucia A. Mead to Join Party.
Mrs. Lucia Ames Mead of Boston, a lecturer and a writer upon international law and social questions, is the other woman speaker on the special. Mrs. Emmons Blaine, who deserted the political faith of her family, that in which her father-in-law, James G. Blaine, was so conspicuous, and who contributed $5000 with her declaration on behalf of the League of Nations, will join the party tomorrow.

Though introduced as an authority of great learning, Mrs. Mead is much given to homely similes and illustrations in her conversation. "Must Join No Other League."
"It is this league we must join and no other," pronounced Mrs. Mead with conviction. "The alternative will be, not a finer association, but isolation, preparations for war and future wars. Women of this country, remember the mothers of France, of Italy and of England think just as much of their sons as we do of ours. Not one woman, individually or collectively, has been heard in all the 45 nations belonging to the league to voice a protest against the league as it now exists. Not another nation in the league has asked for a reservation."

"This whole year spent in futile trifling over phraseology on our part has been due wholly to politics, a political conspiracy against the President. I never have known a campaign so rife with caricature of the truth. Let your women readers consider and choose between the views of Mrs. Harriet Taylor Upton, who is campaigning for the Republican ticket, and Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, who is nonpartisan. Mrs. Upton is appealing to women on the ground that the league means war, while Mrs. Catt takes exactly the contrary view, that it means the future peace of the world."

Already Functioning for Peace.
"As a matter of fact, the league already is functioning to the end of maintaining peace. It has already prevented one war and is in the way of preventing another. The assembly will meet at Geneva Nov. 15, when the 700 rooms of the Hotel National will be filled with members of its staff."

"We may thank President Wilson for the fact that this meeting occurs in Geneva, not in Belgium with its ruins and memories of atrocities. The little republic of Switzerland with its two religions, four languages, different races, is an example to the world of co-operation and good will. It provides a psychological atmosphere sadly lacking in mournful, vindictive Paris. It is a wonderful thing, the League of Nations idea, when you view it against the background of history, this first universal provision for the prevention of war and the limitations of war. Each nation is to be its brother's keeper, to consider carefully any spot on earth which is breeding trouble. Every nation solemnly pledges itself to refer its disputes to one of several methods of peaceful adjustment. It must wait nine months before it can make a move toward war. It is a stupendous spectacle: the imperialistic, formerly predatory nations who entered war at their own great will, being judge and jury and executioner in their own case, now voluntarily limiting themselves and curtailing their power insofar as it was unrighteous."

"This is not giving up sovereignty."

There is no super-nation. The specious notion that England has five votes, maliciously spread about in order to make enemies for the league, must always be answered. The whole British empire, with 400,000,000 population, has only one vote in the Executive Council of the league. United States, with 100,000,000, has one vote. Every American has four times as much power in the council as any Britisher.

"In the Assembly, chiefly a place for talking, and in which, as in the council, votes usually must be unanimous, the dominions of Great Britain have each a voice. There will be 19 Spanish-speaking voices."

"The bugaboo of our being dominated by foreign Powers is something no other nation is disturbed about. We alone are playing the deserter, the timid, not to say cowardly."

Mrs. Mead declares that while she will vote for Republican officers in Massachusetts if she returns home in time, parties and personalities mean nothing to her. Policies and principles are the great issue. She says that women should remember only that if they vote for Senator Harding they are subscribing to the aims of the bitter enders, such men as Brandegee, Wadsworth, Penrose, also long opponents of woman suffrage, and if they hope for anything in the way of a league from the distinguished Republicans but former pro-league who recently signed a paper endorsing Harding it should be noted they all are men who are not at present in office and who will be kept out of power by those with more selfish interests.

RECORD OF 63 DAYS WITHOUT FOOD ESTABLISHED IN 1831

Frenchman Condemned to Death
Starved Self in Prison to Escape
Guillotine.

PARIS, Oct. 21.—The long hunger strike of Mayor MacSwiney of Cork has caused much discussion here as to how long it is possible for a man to fast. Dr. Socquet has told the Paris Midi that the record is 63 days without food, set by William Granter in 1831.

Granter had been sentenced to death and was confined in the prison of Toulouse, said Dr. Socquet. He had a horror of the guillotine and to save himself from death by that instrument determined to starve, which he did after 63 days.

"Many hunger-strikers have lived longer than could have been expected," he went on. "There are the cases of Tanner, Succi and Merlati, the latter of whom starved for 43 days, while he lost one-quarter of his weight. Taylor tells of the case of a worker who was imprisoned in a mine for 60 days without food. He lived three days after his rescue and died as a result of being excessively fed. Many lunatics have refused to take food for 20, 30 or even 40 days."

"No rule can be established as to length of time a man can fast. His endurance will depend upon his previous health, his constitution and also upon his spiritual condition, which is very important. It is well known that a starving man may increase his endurance a great deal by drinking water."

German Paper Suits in London.

LONDON, Oct. 4.—Paper suits of clothing manufactured in Germany have been shipped to London on approval and displayed for sale by a firm of importers in the Strand at 2 shilling 6 pence to 10 shillings 6 pence. It is stated that German exporters are offering these suits to British importers at the rate of 1000 suits for £120, or the normal equivalent of about 60 cents a suit. They are described as "of the very best paper texture." Other quotations would permit English retailers to obtain from 200 to 300 per cent profit.

FOOD DOWN 5 PCT. AT WHOLESALE, 2 AT RETAIL

Figures of Bureau of Labor Statistics Show How Slowly Benefits Move to Consumer.

By the Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—While retail food prices in St. Louis, and throughout the United States, were going down 2 per cent, between Aug. 15 and Sept. 15, wholesale prices of food and farm products decreased by more than 5 per cent. This comparison, which appears in a study of the monthly price review of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, illustrates the slowness with which lower prices reach the consumer.

In many important commodities, the bureau states, a continued downward trend was noted, the decline in the general wholesale price level being 3.2 per cent. Cloths and clothing dropped 7 per cent, and building materials more than 3 per cent, while smaller decreases were recorded for metals and miscellaneous commodities, the latter group including such items as bran, cottonseed meal and fertilizer materials, rubber and paper. Fuel and lighting materials, as in the preceding month, continued upward with an average increase of 6 per cent over August prices. Chemicals and drugs advanced 2.75 per cent, and house furnishings 2.25 per cent.

Fuels Up 57 Per Cent.
Measured by changes in the bureau's index numbers from September, 1919, to September, 1920, farm products decreased 7 per cent and cloths and clothing 9 per cent. In all other groups there was an increase this year. In fuels the advance was 57 per cent, and in building materials 40 per cent. Considered in the aggregate, the wholesale prices of all commodities went up 10 per cent.

An interesting commentary on the rise in retail meat prices during the past year is afforded by a statement issued by the Department of Agriculture, based on prices ascertained by the Bureau of Crop Estimates. The statement says that meat animals have been sold by farmers for a whole year, ending with September, 1920, at prices lower by 14 per cent than they were in the preceding year. In the face of this reported decrease, the Bureau of Labor Statistics shows the following increases in the cost of meat to the consumer from September, 1919, to September, 1920: Sirloin steak, 15 per cent; round steak, 14 per cent; lamb, 13 per cent; rib roast, 11 per cent; pork chops and ham, 9 per cent; chuck roast, 8 per cent, and bacon, 2 per cent.

Ten Industries Drop Workers.
A report by the Bureau on Employment in leading manufacturing industries shows that 10 industries out of 14 dropped workers during their payrolls in the month from August to September. The number employed in the boot and shoe industry decreased 14.4 per cent, and the amount of money paid employees decreased 15.3 per cent. In the leather industry the decreases were respectively 7.6 per cent and 15.1 per cent. Others in which employment fell off were automobile manufacturing, car building and repairing, cotton manufacturing, cotton finishing, hosiery and underwear, silk, men's clothing and paper making. The greatest increase in the number of workers was in the woolen industry, 37.9 per cent, owing to the fact that many mills resumed full operations during the month, after having been partly closed on account of lack of orders. Other industries showing increased employment were iron and steel, cigar making and coal mining.

CRITICISM CAUSES SCHOOL SUPERINTENDENT TO QUIT

Had Filled Post 10 Years; Immoral
Conditions Alleged in Certain Toledo Schools.

By the Associated Press.
TOLEDO, O., Oct. 21.—The resignation of William B. Guttau as superintendent of Toledo Public Schools was announced yesterday by the Board of Education. Guttau had undergone considerable criticism of late relative to alleged immoral conditions in certain of the schools. In a statement concerning his resignation the Superintendent said "his patience had been exhausted."

He had been Superintendent of Schools more than 10 years and is considered among the foremost educators of the country. After graduating from the schools of which he later became head, he completed a course at Ohio State University, Cornell and the University of Pennsylvania, taking the degree of doctor of philosophy from the latter.

After finishing in the East he returned here and served as a teacher 20 years, when he was made superintendent.

LONDON ACTRESS SAYS POISONED CANDY WAS SENT TO HER

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, Oct. 21.—Peggy O'Neil, the actress, who about a month ago was taken suddenly ill during the performance of a play at the Savoy Theatre, has just returned to her place in the cast and declares her illness was due to an attempt to poison her.

She says a box was sent to her dressing room anonymously and that upon opening it she found it contained chocolates. She ate some of the candy and was soon taken seriously ill. First aid was administered, but she was incapacitated for some time. One chocolate was given to a dog belonging to Miss O'Neil, and the animal soon died, and an analysis of the confectionery showed it contained arsenic and strychnine.

Police authorities were informed, but they failed to find the person who sent the box to Miss O'Neil.

Records of the Democratic and Republican Nominees for U.S. Senator and for the State Legislature

Facts to Guide Voters in Choosing Between Long and Spencer and the Candidates for the General Assembly.

THE POST-DISPATCH herewith presents for the guidance of the voters the records of the Democratic and Republican nominees for the United States Senate and for the State and the House from the St. Louis districts in the Missouri General Assembly. The records of the nominees for Governor, Secretary of State, Treasurer, Auditor and Attorney General were presented last Monday and those of the candidates of the same parties for judges of the Supreme Court and for Congress from the St. Louis districts were published yesterday. The records of the nominees for the State offices in St. Louis will be published later.

United States Senator.

Breckinridge Long, Democratic nominee for United States Senator, is an ardent supporter of the League of Nations and of the Wilson administration, in which he served more than three years as Third Assistant Secretary of State.

On the League of Nations, Long's position has been in favor of ratification without amendment, or with only such clarifying reservations as would not destroy the purposes of the league. Throughout the campaign he has charged that the Republicans were conducting a campaign of falsehood and vilification and has defended the acts of President Wilson and others in the administration.

On the question of amendments to the Volstead law, Long has said he is opposed to any amendments to the law for a period of two years, believing that it should be given a fair trial, and that the results of a two-year trial would determine whether there should be amendments.

Opposition's Appeal to Rural Publishers.

Opposition to Long has attempted to prejudice rural newspapers against him by circulation of a statement that the Graham Paper Co., in which Mrs. Long is a stockholder, was shown in a sensational investigation to have paid 120 per cent on a common stock issue of $500,000. Unprejudiced inquiry, however, developed the fact that Mrs. Long owns none of the common stock, and that as holder of 2240 shares of preferred stock she received a dividend of only 7 per cent, amounting to $15,680 a year. It also was disclosed that the control of the company is entirely in the hands of the holders of common stock and that the preferred stockholders have no voice in its management.

Long has been active in Missouri politics for a number of years. He was a liberal contributor in both Wilson campaigns, and has worked with the party organization in both the city and State.

He was born in St. Louis, and is 40 years old. His father was a Confederate soldier and on his mother's side he is related to the Breckinridge family of Kentucky. He practiced law in St. Louis before entering the State Department in 1917. He is a graduate of the St. Louis public schools and of the University, where he was a student under President Wilson.

Republican Primary Charges Against Spencer.

Senator Selden P. Spencer, Republican, nominee for re-election, has been on the defensive throughout the general election campaign, as he was in the primary campaign. On his two years' record in the Senate, which was characterized by an attitude described as "wobbly" by his Republican opponents in the primary and repeated by the Democrats, on the League of Nations, on the liquor question and on other matters of public interest.

In public speeches on the League of Nations, prior to its actual consideration by the Senate, and in the early stages of the Senate debate, Spencer took a position in favor of ratification of the league with interpretive reservations expressing the right of the United States to withdraw from the league, declaring the supremacy of the Constitution over the treaty, stating that the tariff and immigration were purely domestic questions with which the league would have no concern, and providing for the preservation of the Monroe Doctrine.

The Republican organization politicians in Missouri about that time began active opposition to the league, and Spencer's position began to change. In March, 1919, he signed the Senate Road Block, declaring the league unacceptable, but a few days later said in an interview in the Post-Dispatch: "I am heart and soul for a League of Nations." His record vote in the Senate on the League of Nations question was:

His Voting Record on League.
Oct. 16, 1919—Voted against amendment to the peace treaty to give Shantung to China instead of Japan, to which it was given in the treaty.

Oct. 27, 1919—Voted for the Johnson textual amendment to the peace treaty for equality of voting strength between the United States and Great Britain in the League of Nations assembly.

Nov. 19, 1919—After having voted for the Lodge program of treaty reservations and against the Johnson amendment, Spencer voted for the Lodge reservation of ratification. He voted against the Underwood resolution of unreserved ratification.

March, 1920—Voted for ratification of the peace treaty with Lodge reservations.

May 15, 1920—Voted for the resolution declaring a separate peace with Germany.

June 1, 1920—Voted for the resolution declining to give the President power to accept a mandate over Armenia.

Hays' Letter Never Obtained.
Early in the summer supporters of Lieutenant-Colonel Dwight F. Davis, who was a candidate against Spencer for the nomination for Senator, refused to contribute to the Republican National campaign fund on the ground that they had been informed that Will H. Hays, chairman of the Republican National Committee, had promised Spencer the support of the National Committee in his campaign for renomination if he would vote for the Lodge reservations.

Harry M. Blair, a representative of the National Committee, who solicited the contributions, was told that if he would obtain a letter from Hays denying the reported deal and saying that Davis would be as acceptable as Spencer as the candidate, contributions would be forthcoming. The letter never was obtained.

Spencer, in a public speech in St. Louis a month ago, quoted President Wilson as having promised the Rumanians and Serbs that "if their territory ever was invaded, he would send the American army across the sea to defend their boundary lines." The President promptly branded the statement as false. Spencer then said that the stenographic report of the conference at which the President was alleged to have made the statement would prove the truth of his assertion. He later admitted that he never had seen the stenographic report and that he was relying upon an anti-Wilson magazine article.

How He Misquoted the President.
An examination of this article revealed that Spencer, in quoting it, had given only a part of the paragraph referring to the President's remarks, and that the actual text was very different.

When an authentic copy of the speech was obtained from the stenographer who reported it, Spencer was shown to have misquoted the President's remarks. Notwithstanding the conclusive proof produced, Spencer continued the misquotation in a number of speeches.

On the liquor question Spencer was

Records of Candidates for Senator and Assembly

Supported in 1918 by the Anti-Saloon League on the theory that he was a prohibitionist, and by the Liquor Dealers' Association on the pledge of Republican leaders that he would oppose drastic prohibition enforcement laws. His record in the Senate has resulted in criticism of him by both elements. It was:

His Record on Prohibition.
Dec. 23, 1918—Recorded as not voting on an amendment to a revenue bill to make the Reed bone-dry law applicable to the District of Columbia. (Prohibitionists had expected him to vote for the measure, and the Liquor Dealers' Association had expected him to vote against it.)
June 18, 1919—Voted to table a motion to suspend the rules in order to permit the offering of an amendment to repeal wartime prohibition as to wine and beer, the effect being a vote to prevent the introduction of the amendment.

Sept. 4, 1919—Not voting on motion to strike from prohibition bill an amendment putting burden of proof on defendant to establish that liquor does not exceed permitted alcoholic content.

Oct. 28, 1919—Voted to pass Volstead prohibition enforcement act over the President's veto.

Spencer's record on other important matters follows:

Dec. 28, 1918—Voted for an amendment to a revenue bill designed to repeal the zone system as applied to second class mail.

Jan. 16, 1919—Voted for a resolution dropping the disloyalty charges against La Follette.

Jan. 18, 1919—Not voting on bill to increase salaries of Federal Judges.

Jan. 24, 1919—Voted for a bill providing $100,000,000 for European relief.

Feb. 10, 1919—Voted for submission of woman suffrage amendment to the states.

Feb. 14, 1919—Voted against tabling Johnson resolution calling for withdrawal of American troops from Russia.

Feb. 15, 1919—Voted against an amendment decreasing waterways appropriation.

Feb. 27, 1919—Voted against an amendment to repeal all laws restricting cotton exports.

June 4, 1919—Voted for submission of suffrage amendment to states.

June 6, 1919—Voted for a resolution calling upon the American peace commissioners to secure a hearing for Ireland at the peace conference and expressing sympathy with Ireland's aspirations for a government of its own choice.

June 18, 1919—Voted to repeal daylight saving law.

Aug. 20, 1919—Voted to pass daylight saving repeal over President's veto.

Voted for Cummins Bill.

Dec. 29, 1919—Voted for Cummins railroad bill.

Jan. 26, 1920—Voted for bill to promote the Americanization of aliens.

Feb. 23, 1920—Voted to agree to the conference report on the Beech-Cummins railroad bill.

Feb. 24, 1920—Voted against motion to recommit the civil service retirement bill; in effect a vote for the bill.

April 9, 1920—Voted for an amendment substituting voluntary for compulsory military training in the army reorganization bill.

April 24, 1920—Voted for Reed and Harrison amendments increasing waterways appropriations.

May 28, 1920—Voted in favor of the conference report on the water power bill.

May 29, 1920—Voted for bill to pension soldiers and sailors of the war with Spain, the Philippine Insurrection and the Chinese Relief expedition.

Planned G. O. P. Advantage in Kansas City.

Early in 1919, when the Missouri Legislature had under consideration election bills introduced at the instance of Kansas City Republicans to change the election laws of Kansas City, Spencer wrote to John Schmitt, then chairman of the Republican Central City Committee, urging him to exert his influence to obtain the passage of the bills. In the letter Spencer said that if the Republicans could get a "fair deal" in Kansas City the State could be carried by Republicans. He said the changes advocated would give the Republicans a fair deal, but added that the changes were not desired for St. Louis. The election laws for the two cities are virtually the same. Kansas City is Democratic and St. Louis is Republican.

Involved in Lowden Campaign Scandal.

Spencer's name was brought into the Lowden campaign fund scandal in Missouri before the Republican national convention, it being shown that he was in frequent conference with Circuit Clerk Nat Goldstein and Robert E. Moore, members of the City Committee, who received $2500 each from the Lowden fund. Spencer said the $100 was a personal contribution from Babler, but that the $200 was contributed by other friends through Babler and could have no connection with the Lowden fund.

Spencer took no part in the "house-cleaning" movement in the Republican organization before the primary, nearly all those complained of by the "house cleaners" being his supporters. He did not join in the movement to oust Babler, and refused to vote as a member of the Missouri delegation to the national convention when a motion to reconsider the re-election of Babler as national committeeman was taken up. However, Spencer failed to defend Babler at the State convention, when a resolution denouncing him passed by the State Committee.

Helped to Delay Newberry Case.

Spencer is acting chairman of the committee to which the Senate assigned the contest of Henry Ford against Truman H. Newberry, Senator from Michigan. Newberry's vote provides the majority of one which the Republicans have in the Senate, and notwithstanding the fact that Newberry had been tried and sentenced to the penitentiary for illegally using money to obtain his seat in the Senate, Spencer has not called his committee together to consider the contest. There has been no meeting of the committee since early in June, though Ford's attorneys have urged that the evidence be taken.

Spencer is 58 years old and was born in Erie, Pa. He received his collegiate education at Yale and his law education at the St. Louis Law School. He was admitted to practice in St. Louis in 1884, a year prior to his graduation from law school.

He was elected a member of the Missouri Legislature from St. Louis in 1894 and a Circuit Judge in St. Louis in 1896. He has served as president of the Missouri Bar Association. He has been active in Y. M. C. A. work and in the Presbyterian Church.

State Senator, 29th District.

Robert C. Uthoff, Democrat, is vice president of the John H. Uthoff Realty Co. Resides at 713 Dover place.

Frank B. Warner, Republican, is seeking election for the third time to the Senate. Before his first election in 1912 he had served two terms in the Missouri House of Representatives. His record in the Legislature is similar to that of nearly all the other St. Louis members. He has shown little initiative and has voted in almost every instance with the desires of the local Republican organization. He voted to abolish the State Tax Commission. He is in the automobile tire business. He is 52 years old.

State Senator, 31st District.

Michael Kinney, Democrat, is seeking election for his third term in the Senate. He has long been active in Democratic politics and is said to control the politics of two downtown wards. He took no part in the effort to have passed a bill which would permit St. Louis to annex a portion of St. Louis County, and which would have enabled St. Louis to obtain a higher rank among the cities in the present census. He likewise gave no aid to those who attempted to prevent the passage of the McCullough-Morgan "mud road" bill, which destroyed the plan for the building of only hard roads throughout the State, and enabled rural counties, which were not sufficiently progressive to vote money themselves for good roads, to aid in draining the treasury of money obtained from St. Louis and the other progressive communities.

Records of Candidates for Senator and Assembly

There is no Republican candidate in his district. The Republican City Committee has under consideration the nomination of Hugh K. Wagner, a member of the last Missouri House of Representatives, against Kinney, but so far has not taken final action on the matter.

State Senator, 33d District.

Joseph H. Brogan, Democrat, is a candidate for a fourth term as Senator. Early in the last session he gave no attention to the annexation bill, but after the Post-Dispatch called attention of the failure of St. Louis Senators to interest themselves in it, he attended a committee and urged a favorable report on the measure. On taxation and roads he also was not active, and voted to abolish the State Tax Commission. He is 42 years old. Is a member of the Democratic State Committee. He formerly was a saloonkeeper, but studied law at night and two years ago was admitted to the bar.

Joseph M. Ebeling, Republican, is a real estate dealer. He formerly was a member of the City Council. He lives at 3713 West avenue.

Charles Forster, Republican, is a secondhand goods dealer. He resides at 2336 South Twelfth street.

Henry F. Weber, Republican, is a member of the last Legislature. His record was better than a majority of the St. Louis members. He voted for tax reform, against the "mud road" bill and for a hard road system. He voted for the workmen's compensation bill. He is 28 years old, is a merchant, and resides at 1912 South Tenth street.

Frank L. Wetzel, Republican, is a plumbing contractor. He resides at 8 Rankin avenue.

Representative, First District.

(Three to Be Elected.)

Louis C. Barbaglia, Democrat, Grocer. Resides at 1815 Cooper street. Was defeated for Representative in 1918.

Theodore Schultz, Democrat, was placed on the ticket by the Democratic committee after A. Evans Hughes, nominated at the primary, had resigned to accept place on ticket as Democratic candidate for Congress in the Tenth District. Schultz is a shoe worker, and resides at 2630 Virginia avenue.

James M. Shea, Democrat, Manufacturers' Agent. Resides at 629 Kansas street.

George Eigel, Republican, Lawyer. Resides at 3618 South Jefferson avenue. He was a member of the last Legislature, and voted to abolish the State Tax Commission, and thus against tax reform. His record on road legislation was better, he being one of the few St. Louis members to vote for a permanent hard road system, and against the "mud road" bill. He gave no assistance toward the passage of the annexation bill, but voted for the workmen's compensation bill.

John T. Manning, Republican, is a lawyer, and resides at 348 West Hurst street.

Frank B. Smith, Republican, is proprietor of a printing plant. He resides at 8 Rankin avenue.

Representative, Second District.

(Three to Be Elected.)

Chilton Atkinson, Democrat, is a lawyer, and resides at 3000 Lafayette avenue. He stands well in his profession.

Charles F. McConnell, Democrat, Resides at 1602 Park avenue.

A. Lowell Morris, Democrat, was a marine in the war. He resides at 2029 Nicholson place.

Representative, Third District.

(THREE TO BE ELECTED.)

Emery W. Chase, Democrat, is proprietor of Hotel Garrick, Sixth and Chestnut streets, which several times has been raided by the police. He is associated with the Kinney faction in Democratic politics.

Joseph P. Nick, Democrat, resides at 19 South Fifteenth street.

John J. Tatten, Democrat, clerk, resides at 1414 North Twenty-second street.

Langston Harrison, Republican, is a negro saloonkeeper. He resides at his saloon, 2311 Market street.

Julius A. Razovsky, Republican, was a member of the last Legislature. His record on important measures in which St. Louis was particularly interested was not good. He took no interest in the annexation bill, voted to abolish the State Tax Commission and thus against tax reform, and voted in favor of the "mud roads" bill and thus against a hard road system for the State. He is a lawyer, is 27 years old, and resides at 1026 North Fourteenth street.

Maurice Rothschild, Republican, is manager of Ritz Hotel, 1907 Market street.

Legislature, Fourth District.

(THREE TO BE ELECTED.)

Joseph Henry, Democrat, is a teamster and resides at 1616 Knapp street.

Thomas J. McNamara, Democrat, is an asbestos worker and union labor official. He is 40 years old. He was a member of the 1913 Legislature. His record contains nothing of a progressive character. He resides at 1717A Elliot avenue.

James T. O'Brien, Democrat, was the only Democrat elected to the Legislature from St. Louis in 1918. He voted and worked actively for tax reform and to retain in office the State Tax Commission. He voted for the McCullough-Morgan road bill. He was the author of a series of bills to increase the firemen's pension fund, to grant shorter hours to firemen and to generally improve the working condition of firemen in St. Louis. He voted for the workmen's compensation bill. He is an electrician and resides at 2621 North Sarah street.

Frank O. Bittner, Republican, was a member of the Legislature in 1915 and again in 1918. In the latter session he voted against tax reform and in favor of the "mud road" bill. His record was particularly bad on the annexation bill. While many of the St. Louis members took no active part for the bill, Bittner joined forces with members from St. Louis County to kill it. He voted for the workmen's compensation bill. He is a carpenter and resides at 257 East Farrar street.

Edward G. Davidson, Republican, was a member of the last Legislature. He voted against tax reform, but in favor of a hard road system and against the "mud road" bill. His general record, however, was of association with reactionary elements in the Legislature. He is in the insurance business and resides at 3007 Easton avenue. Voted for workmen's compensation bill.

Charles Straub, Republican, is an engineer and resides at 1406 Angelica street.

Legislature, Fifth District.

(TWO TO BE ELECTED.)

Albert E. Muckerman, Democrat, is a printer and resides at 4025 Clay street.

Richard Goodenough, Republican, is a printer and resides at 4518 Lexington avenue.

George W. Horner, Republican, was a member of the last Legislature. His record on important bills of interest to St. Louis was not good. He voted against tax reform and in favor of a "mud road" system. He voted for the workmen's compensation bill. He is 40 years old and was a saloon keeper. He resides at 6008 Bulwer avenue.

Legislature, Sixth District.

(TWO TO BE ELECTED.)

Richard M. Wray, Democrat, served as a member of the Legislature three times in 1881, 1883 and 1885, with an excellent record. He was born in St. Charles County and came to St. Louis in 1871. He formerly was employed by the Wabash Railroad, and in that service suffered the loss of his right hand.

John Keegan, Democrat, was an officer of the old City Council, serving when the Council was Democratic and being retained in office after it became unanimously Republican. During the war he was connected with the Ordnance Department of the army. He is employed by the Missouri State Life Insurance Co. He resides at 6728 Bartmer avenue.

William E. Caulfield, Republican. Was a member of the last Legislature and formerly was a member of the City Council. As a member of the Legislature he voted for the "mud roads" bill and thus against the hard road system and also voted against tax reform. He voted for the workmen's compensation bill. He is 49 years old, is in the real estate business and resides at 5242 Maple avenue.

Waltham M. Moore, Republican, is a negro and is a railway mail clerk. He resides at 2035 Pine street.

LEGEND OF DROWNINGS AFTER PRONOUNCEMENT OF CURSE

Series of Deaths of Occupants of Battle Abbey Said to Have Followed Abbott's Action.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.
LONDON, Oct. 20.—The sudden death of Michael P. Grace, father of the Countess of Donoughmore, recalls a legend connected with Battle Abbey, which he rented from Sir Augustus Webster.
The great establishment was seized by Henry VIII, and it is said that the last abbot pronounced a curse that the owners of it should meet death by drowning. It is stated that Lord Montague, who owned the property in the eighteenth century, was drowned, and a similar fate befell his two nephews, Lady Webster, wife of the present owner, was drowned three years ago, and a short time later the eldest daughter of the tenant then occupying the abbey lost her life in a similar way.

ADVERTISMENT A Home-Made Gray Hair Remedy

You can prepare a simple mixture at home that will gradually darken gray hair, and make it soft and glossy. To a half-pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and a ounce of glycerine. These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at little cost, or the druggist will put it up for you. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray-haired person look many years younger. It is easy to use, does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy, and does not rub off.

FRENCH WRITER DENIES 'CONSPIRACY WITH COX'

Journalist Declares He Was Not Mysterious Spokesman Harding Referred To.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Maurice Dekobra, the French representative of La Liberté, Paris, who is the "humorist" who spoke with Gov. Cox, issued the following statement here yesterday:

"Although Gov. Cox hurt my democratic feelings in giving me the flattering title of 'King of French Humorists,' in his speech at Nashua, N. H., I must confess right here that I was not the mysterious French spokesman referred to in Senator Harding's speech. As a matter of fact, I spent a week on board Gov. Cox's special train, and enjoyed the very kind hospitality of his party. I want to thank him here to have allowed the French representative of an important Paris paper, La Liberté, to describe a presidential campaign for our public, as I was the only French writer who came to America especially to inform his countrymen about your coming election.

"When I left Gov. Cox's train I wanted to join Senator Harding's party and hoped to be favored with the same welcome. However, things were different as soon as I went over New Man's Land between the Democratic trenches and the Republican barbed wires.

"After having sent to La Liberté Gov. Cox's opinion as to the French American relations I wished, according to the neutral spirit that befits my mission, to send also a description of Senator Harding's feelings toward France and to show my countrymen the other side of the picture. But I was prevented from doing so by those who stand near the Republican candidate. I was told that it would not be advisable for me to insist. Therefore, I could not have had a conversation with Senator Harding, unless by imitating Douglas Fairbanks; that is to say, jumping from a bridge into the Senator's car.

"I have just seen a communique issued by Senator Harding's headquarters at Marion and enjoyed it very much, because it reminds me of the Shakespearean 'Comedy of Errors.' "For Senator Harding's publicity agent to hint at Gov. Cox's attempt to trap Senator Harding falls himself into the trap of his own fancy. According to this gentleman, I have been conspiring with Gov. Cox in order to get Senator Harding to say things that might be used by his adversary. This I absolutely deny. My position as a French observer and a friend of America at large obliges me to be impartial and it would have been a breach of etiquette if I had intruded into a political controversy between two candidates for the presidency.

"This simple explanation clears the drama of the mysterious spokesman. I can assure my American friends that I have a clear conscience. Although I am well aware that the League of Nations is not a baseball club, as a spokesman candidly asked a friend of mine, I personally have little faith in universal fraternity, but this little incident is another proof that politics are not after all such grave affairs as they look. There can be humor—and a humorist in them."

LEWIS FOR GOVERNMENT OWNERSHIP OF COAL MINES

Candidate for Governorship of Illinois Would Make State the Agent in Operation.

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Oct. 21.—Government ownership of coal mines was advocated by James Hamilton Lewis, Democratic candidate for the governorship, in a speech at Virden, south of here, yesterday morning.

"I would place coal mining under the Government of the United States," said Senator Lewis. "I would have the mines operated by the miners through a contract arrangement with their Government and the Government's agents supervise for the Government the protection of the miner in the matter of gases, explosions and health.

"I would have the Government, either through the State or supervising agents, contract with the miner or his representative in co-operating the bargaining for the output of the mines, and the distribution of the coal to such points as the necessities of the country demanded. To make a success of this I would have the State constituted agent of the Government that there might be a union in the operation of the State and the nation.

"In every controversy between the miners and the mine owners I would have the Government reserve a standing board to hear the grievances and to satisfy the demands so as to make it unnecessary that miners should have to strike or be laid off at a time when all the needs of the country should keep all the mines in operation every hour."

REPORTS OF POGROMS AGAINST JEWS NEAR KOVEL CONFIRMED

Jews in Polish Parliament Submit Names of 60 Members of Race, Who Were Killed.

By the Associated Press.
WARSAW, Oct. 21.—Jewish members of the Polish Parliament have confirmed the reports of pogroms committed by the forces of Gen. Balakovich, who is co-operating with Gen. Wrangel. The reports declare that much brutality was displayed by the soldiers who maltreated a large number of women and subjected some of the victims to much torture. All the evidence which the Jewish Deputies have secured has been passed over to the chief of the general staff for further attention. The community of Kanen-Kasirach (near Kovel) is declared to have suffered most. The statement gives a list of the names of some 60 Jews there murdered in different ways.

Difficult to Keep Your Hair Wavy? Read This

If you have not yet tried the new way, the simplest way, by all means do so. You'll never again use the ruinous heated iron. The curliness will appear so perfectly natural and the hair will be so beautifully lustrous, instead of dried and parched. This liquid astringent serves also as a beneficial dressing for the hair. It is neither sticky nor greasy, but quite pleasant to use. It should be applied with a clean toothbrush before putting on the hair, drawing the brush through the hair from root to tip. The hair will have the loveliest curls and waves imaginable in three hours, and it will be easy to manage, no matter how you do it up. A few centimes of the liquid from your druggist will last a long time.

SEES LEAGUE A SUCCESS ONLY IN SOBER WORLD

Hobson Believes It Will Collapse
if Nations Lapse Into Alcoholic Current.

Capt. Richmond Pearson Hobson, advocate of military preparedness and of total abstinence from alcoholic drinks, who spoke for the Anti-Saloon League last night at King's Highway Presbyterian Church, in support of proposition No. 13, a referendum on State prohibition enforcement, said the League of Nations could function only in a sober world, and attributed the recent war indirectly to the effect of alcoholic drinks upon the European mind.

"The nations of Europe before the war," he explained, "consumed enough alcoholic drinks to poison every man, woman and child every three days, and the direct effect of alcohol poisoning is to weaken and in large measure to stop the higher faculties of the upper brain from functioning. Though this is thrown to the base of the brain, where dwell the animal natures.

"Jealousy, hatred and social disintegration was inevitable, and the great cataclysm resulted. In a sober world, with the return of normal faculties and the consciousness of kind, the League of Nations would function successfully, and a new era of peace, good will and co-operation would dawn.

"If the European nations lapse into the alcoholic current in which they were engulfed before the war, not only will the league collapse, but a further cataclysm shock the world."

Capt. Hobson says the Republicans are hedging on the League of Nations issue, as Harding is against the league, while other prominent Republicans are for it.

As to preparedness for war, he thinks the whole American fleet should be sent to the Pacific and kept there to maintain an equilibrium of power. He regards the situation with Japan as being extremely serious.

WHEAT HAULED IN TRUCK 480 MILES TO MARKET AT PROFIT

Nebraska Farmer Finds Way of Beating Car Shortage and Congested Elevators.

OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 21.—Unable to obtain cars from the railroad to ship his wheat to market direct and with the local elevators filled to capacity and refusing to make additional purchases, D. C. Hibbard, Potter, Neb., farmer, loaded 110 bushels of wheat on his two-ton truck and hauled it to Omaha, 480 miles.

The trip required three days, without night traveling, and the total expense was $22.08 or about 21 cents a bushel. The wheat sold on the Omaha market for $2 a bushel, which he said insured him a good profit over the price he would have received by selling at an elevator in his home town and allowing for the elevator profit and freight rates. The freight rate is 17 cents a bushel.

Hibbard announced that a truck train of over 15 machines, many of which would haul trailers, is contemplated by farmers in order to get their crop to market. On his return Hibbard will haul a cargo of apples from Eastern Nebraska for distribution among his neighbors in the western part of the State.

$35,000 VERDICT FOR INJURIES

Switchman for Terminal, Hurt Feb. 20, Wins Case.

A jury verdict for $35,000 damages was returned yesterday in Circuit Judge Ferriss' court in favor of Timothy Harrington, 48 years old, of 1928 Montgomery street, for injuries received by him when in the employment of the Terminal Railway Association. He was a switchman in the Mound street yards and in coupling cars Feb. 20 last his left arm was caught in a drawbar and broken. He also received other injuries.

The suit was directed against the Director General of Railroads.

River Commission's Meeting.
The Mississippi River Commission will meet for its usual fall session on board the steamer Mississippi, Nov. 4, at 10 a. m. The commission will make an inspection trip from St. Louis to New Orleans and will give public hearings at St. Louis and at points along the route on matters

PART TWO.

BEVERIDGE ASSAILS LEAGUE, DWELLS ON RACIAL PREJUDICE

Former Indiana Senator Says
It Would Result in Breaking American People Up Into Hostile Groups.

TREATY IN ENTIRETY ALSO CRITICISED

Declared to Create Carpet
Bag Government of the World With U. S. as Sustaining Member.

A novel argument against American participation in any League of Nations was advanced, probably for the first time here, by former Senator Albert J. Beveridge of Indiana, in a speech which he delivered before about 1500 persons in the auditorium of Cleveland High School last night. Briefly, it was as follows:

That Americans are not a race, but a variegated collection of many races that are slowly being fused into one race; that the love of the mother country is still close to the surface, and that the entrance of the United States into European disputes immediately would bring all the racial prejudices of Americans to the surface, and divide the people of the country into hostile racial camps, each endeavoring to have this country side with the old country from which they or their ancestors came.

Groups Already Formed.

"Why, look!" cried the speaker. "After only two years of intermittent meddling in Europe's affairs, various groups of our people have become pro-French, pro-Polish, pro-Irish, pro-Italian and pro-everything except pro-American, each nationality firmly believing that this country could only fulfill its destiny by taking the part of that race or country to which they traced their ancestry."

"It takes no prophet," he continued, "to look ahead eight years or four years and see a Republican Quay, or a Democratic Taggart closed in a dark room with the heads of national racial organizations, bartering with them the mass vote of their members. It takes no seer to see a President being elected by those votes, given to him for what he promised to do for the lands of their origin."

Beveridge, whose reputation as an orator is national, was one of the "insurgents" in the Senate a decade ago. When Roosevelt left the Republican party in 1912, Beveridge presided at the first Progressive convention. Recently, however, with other famous Progressives, he has become "regular" again and is stumping the country in behalf of the Republican ticket.

Tribute to Wilson.

His speech last night undoubtedly was free of partisan attack, but the usual campaign address. He paid high tribute to some aspects of President Wilson's character, bestowed a peroration of praise on Senator James A. Reed that brought the crowd up whistling and cheering, and referred sarcastically to "some gentlemen who began this League to Enforce Peace business." The best known of these "gentlemen," of course, is former President Taft.

His speech might be divided roughly into three parts, namely: His attack on the League of Nations and the treaty; a recital of the domestic problems of the country; and what he termed the abandonment of President Wilson's four-point plan. Concerning the latter, he said:

"It was one of the noblest programs of principles ever penned by human hand, and if he had stood, it would have occupied a place in history second, perhaps, to no man who has ever lived."

Beveridge said that the President's action, before the election of 1918, in asking the people of the country for a Democratic Congress was not the act of an autocrat, as many Republicans have declared, but was "a wise, splendid and courageous thing."

He asked for a mandate to take to Paris, and he told the people that their failure to give it would be considered by him as a rebuke. This was sound democracy. It would have been sounder democracy if, having got what he himself desired as a rebuke, he had heeded it. But, instead, he went to Paris, walked in upon those innocent and guileless men, Clemenceau and Lloyd George, pulled out this rebuke, and called it a mandate. He had really got a swift kick."

Beveridge attacked the main portions of the treaty even more vigorously than the league covenant. He said: "Behind closed doors, at each of which sat three military emperors, five men at for six months and partitioned up the lands and the peoples of the world. When they had finished, it was found that the territorial transfers had exceeded anything in the history of conquests. Great Britain alone had annexed more land than that part of the United States east of the Mississippi. Tens of millions of people had been bartered about, without their consent. The fact that Mr. Taft accepted responsibility for making Mr. Baker the scapegoat of the American people, and that he, Mr. Taft, had become more Prussian than the Kaiser himself, is a fact which should be a warning to all of us."

Beveridge's View of Harding in 1914 and His Praise of Him Today

ANTICIPATING former Senator Beveridge's speech here in behalf of the Republican candidates, Democratic national headquarters sent out letters quoting the following paragraph said to have been delivered by him in a speech "calling the roll of reaction" in 1914, when he was campaigning for the Progressive ticket:

"In Ohio, Harding, of Chicago convention fame, the disciple and understudy of Foraker without that brilliant man's ability, is the Republican candidate for Senator."

At the close of Beveridge's speech last night a Post-Dispatch reporter quoted the words and asked him if he spoke them.

Beveridge laughed heartily, and replied: "However, I don't recall. Anyhow, it's ancient history."

In his speech last night he used this phrase:

"Our standard bearer, whose vision, judgment, energy, poise, moderation and kindness have captivated the heart and soul of the nation—Warren G. Harding."

HARDING AGAINST ANY LEAGUE, SAYS JOHNSON

Says There Is Nothing in Anything That Suggests He Is for Any Compromise.

By the Associated Press.

HOBOKEN, N. J., Oct. 21.—Senator Harding stands for the outright rejection of the League of Nations and there is nothing ambiguous or uncertain in his declaration of attitude, Senator Hiram Johnson of California, declared in an address here last night.

"The men and newspapers who pretend to be friends of Senator Harding and who assert that he is to take this country into a league of nations do him a distinct disservice and pay him a sorry compliment," Senator Johnson said.

"It takes no prophet," he continued, "to look ahead eight years or four years and see a Republican Quay, or a Democratic Taggart closed in a dark room with the heads of national racial organizations, bartering with them the mass vote of their members. It takes no seer to see a President being elected by those votes, given to him for what he promised to do for the lands of their origin."

HYMNS CALLED FOR TO BRING QUIET AT CHURCH MEETING

CONTROVERSY OVER BAPTISMS IN CHINA

Charges Made That Disciples of Christ Missionaries
Take in Members Without Complete Immersion.

With a tilt over the recommendation of the United Christian Missionary Society expected late this afternoon, the hissing of the Rev. Dr. Burris A. Jenkins, Kansas City newspaper editor and Democratic politician, and sharp discussion of the question whether the church practices "open membership" in foreign mission fields, yesterday, the convention of the Disciples of Christ, in session at the Coliseum all this week is rapidly losing its churchly aspect to the surface of a more or less political gathering.

So excited and restless did the session yesterday afternoon become that at one time the convention president, the Rev. Raphael H. Miller of Kansas City, Mo., called a halt and ordered the singing of "Faith of Our Fathers," "I Need Thee Every Hour," and other hymns. This had a quieting effect and the session continued until 8:30 p. m., much later than previous hours of adjournment.

Cox Demands That Root Correct "False Statement" on Governor's League Stand

Democratic Candidate Says
He Would Confer With Sincere Supporters of Covenant Regarding Reservations.

By the Associated Press.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Oct. 21.—Gov. Cox sent a telegram to Elihu Root yesterday asking him to "correct" what the Democratic candidate declared was a "false" statement in Root's address the day before regarding the Governor's position upon the League of Nations issue. The Governor denied Root's statement that he demands the league "called as Mr. Wilson negotiated the treaty and upon Root for a retraction."

In making public his telegram to Root, Gov. Cox issued a statement declaring that Root and 30 other prominent Republicans signing the recent statement in behalf of Senator Harding were "attempting to deceive the voters because they are permitting their partisanship to rise above their patriotism and trusting to the fact that the vast majority of the voters believe in the doctrine of the League of Nations."

The Governor's telegram to Root is printed herewith in a box.

Governor's Statement.

Gov. Cox's statement commenting upon the Root message said:

"I am today addressing a telegram to Elihu Root, calling upon him for an immediate retraction of a statement in his New York address as to my position towards securing ratification of the treaty and the league."

"I am doing this because it is now apparent to me, at least, that Mr. Root and the 30 eminent Republicans who are for the league associated with him in a statement issued to secure support for Senator Harding, whom they know by his own words as against the league, are attempting to deceive the voters."

"They are permitting their partisanship to rise above their patriotism and trusting perhaps that last week's election of Senator Harding may be in their direction."

"I am trying to be charitable to these men in view of the fact that, in their partisanship, they may not be reading my public addresses, in which I have invariably said it would be my purpose to accept any helpful reservations that will make certain the ratification of the treaty and the league; and that the election would be in the hands of the American people for going into the league; whereas, the address was a plea for the cessation of denominational strife and for Christian unity.

A test of the strength of the conservative group is expected late this afternoon when the Nominating Committee of the United Christian Missionary Society will recommend the re-election of the officers, who are representative of the main group.

The conservatives are seeking to defeat the election of the officers, but it is said they cannot muster sufficient strength to do so.

At the same session other business of the committee on recommendations, which was continued last session, will be heard.

Ernest E. Elliott, publicity secretary of the convention, has issued a statement concerning the denial by the Rev. Arthur Talmadge Abernethy of Cincinnati, O., printed yesterday, that the conservative movement is the product of propaganda by the "Christian Standard." The Rev. Mr. Abernethy is a conservative leader.

Home Mission Reports.

Elliott named six men now or formerly connected with the Christian Standard, who are counted as conservatives. He charged that the Standard Publishing Co. had repeatedly printed its offer to pay all expenses of the part in connection with the Standard, held here by conservatives prior to the convention. He said the Standard had announced it had circulated 95,000 preferential ballots, of which 10,000 were returned in favor of them favoring a change in the officers of the United Christian Missionary Society, of which the Rev. Frederick W. Burnham of St. Louis is president.

The Rev. Mr. Abernethy has circulated a leaflet at the convention in which he stated that an attempt will be made to have the brotherhood endorse the League of Nations. His leaflet opposes such endorsement on the grounds that it would embarrass the church's missionaries in foreign fields, in China because of the Shantung incident and in Italy because of our attitude towards Rome.

This morning's session was devoted to home missions. Five men told briefly of their work in the home field. The Rev. Mr. Abernethy, of Cincinnati, O., presented plans for evangelistic co-operation by groups of churches.

Work of Women's Board.

A discussion of the fields of the Christian Women's Board of Missions followed. The fields taken up were Negro, Spanish Speaking, Highlanders, Bible Chords and Orientals. There was an address on "Our Churches in Scandinavia."

The earlier part of the afternoon session was devoted to a discussion of Bible school problems. Last night Dr. A. L. Shelton, medical missionary who was held for ransom by Chinese bandits, told of his experience. "Plural husbands are the order in Tibet," he said, "and usually a woman marries several brothers of a given family. The elder brother is known as the father of all the children, the other brothers being called uncles. The Rev. Mr. Shelton, head of the house, and her word is law. The husbands are detailed to given duties and they all co-operate."

Gov. Cox's Telegram to Elihu Root

Bridgeport, Conn., Oct. 21.

GOV. COX'S telegram to Elihu Root, sent yesterday, calling on Root to "correct" what he terms "false statements" in Root's recent address on the Governor's League attitude, follows:

"Elihu Root, New York City: 'I have before me a quotation from your address on the League of Nations delivered in New York City, Oct. 19, which reads: 'Gov. Cox declares that he will insist upon the treaty just as Mr. Wilson negotiated it.' 'I am addressing you most respectfully with recognition of your integrity of purpose and your signal service which you have rendered as a public man, mindful of the fact that you may have fallen into error through ignorance of the situation owing to your absence from the United States during a part of the presidential campaign.' 'Your statement, however, is not in keeping with the facts which you are assumed to know by perusal of the daily papers. I have invariably stated in my addresses, and restate here, my whole-hearted desire to make the United States a member of the League of Nations, and that, to secure the consummation of the purpose of America when she entered the war, I will accept reservations that will clarify, that will be helpful, that will reassure the American people, and that will be of good faith, will clearly state to our associates in the league, that Congress and Congress alone, has the right to declare war, and that our Constitution sets up limits in legislation or treaty making beyond which we cannot go.' 'I have stated, further, that I will accept reservations from any source which are offered in my own statement, upon the statements of Senator Harding and Mr. Root, who have been one of America's foremost educators for more than 40 years, called attention to this very thing to a group of student voters at Harvard, in my presence, and pointed out that, in the statement signed by 31 men, all of whom he knows, and with most of whom he has been associated, they have recommended 'their countrymen to put into the presidency a man, who reflects the only League of Nations which has been actually brought into existence and is functioning. They advise voting for the man selected by the very group of Republicans who have brought the present disgrace upon the republic.' 'I have also stated that, if I am elected President, my election can be construed only as a mandate of the American people, and that to secure ratification of the treaty and the league, I would sit down with the members of the United States Senate, I would confer with Mr. Wilson and with you, Mr. Root, as well as with Judge Taft and all others who have a sincere purpose and whose service in the past equips them especially as advisers in this work. 'You know, and know full well, that Senator Harding recently said, 'I am not interested in clarification; I am interested in rejection.' 'As I have stated at the beginning, I am placing a charitable construction upon your statement, that perhaps your partisanship has prevented your reading my address and your prejudice has prevented you from realizing the destruction of our attitude of your own candidate; but you have made a statement concerning me which the records show is false, and I firmly, but respectfully, call upon you to correct this statement at once.

"Mr. Root, you have arrived at the honorable station in life. Many people trust you. You have no right to deceive them. They want the truth in this campaign. Your conscience will tell you that duty to it should be superior to duty to your party."

"JAMES M. COX."

'You know, and know full well, that Senator Harding recently said, 'I am not interested in clarification; I am interested in rejection.' 'As I have stated at the beginning, I am placing a charitable construction upon your statement, that perhaps your partisanship has prevented your reading my address and your prejudice has prevented you from realizing the destruction of our attitude of your own candidate; but you have made a statement concerning me which the records show is false, and I firmly, but respectfully, call upon you to correct this statement at once.

HOUSTON, ASSAILS PROPOSAL FOR CANCELING THE ALLIED LOANS

that debtor nations would be willing to assent to the creation of a bonded debt with a higher rate of interest with obligations for the immediate payment of interest; and there is nothing in existing law which warrants such a transaction. It appears to me to be as fatuous and impracticable as either of the other suggestions.

Reasonable Course to Pursue.

"The reasonable and proper course is to proceed under the terms of existing law which authorizes the Secretary of the Treasury to fund the demand notes into obligations with a distant maturity at a rate of interest at least equivalent to that borne by our own bonds, coupled with authority for the time being to defer interest payments. These foreign obligations are in due legal form. They are signed on behalf of the respective Governments by representatives whom the Department of State designated to the Treasury as being duly authorized to bind the respective Governments, and the Department of State has advised the Treasury that such obligations are internationally valued and binding and have the sanction of the Department of State. The obligations are all payable on demand and bear interest at the rate of 5 per cent per annum. The Liberty Bond acts which authorized the Secretary of the Treasury to acquire these obligations also authorized him to exchange them for long time obligations bearing a rate of interest not less than that borne by the demand obligations. The act provides that the long time obligations shall be in such form and terms as the Secretary of the Treasury may prescribe. In the early autumn of 1919, the Treasury informed the treasuries of the European Governments to which it had made advances that it was prepared, in case they so desired, to discuss with them the exchange of the demand obligations held by the United States for long time obligations, and in that connection, the deferring of interest collection during the reconstruction period of two or three years from the spring of 1919. Negotiations to this effect are now under way and I trust that they will be completed in the near future. Such an arrangement will involve no present burden to the debtor nations and would do much in fact to clear the atmosphere and to improve European credit.

World Regaining Feet.

"It is unnecessary to conclude that debtor nations cannot by a time reasonably distant discharge their obligations. The truth of the matter is that we are doing too much of our thinking upon the heels of the greatest tragedy the world has known and that the thinking of many people is naturally not calm and balanced and does not take a sufficient number of things into account. This is not the first time the world has been in great trouble and if we can judge from history the world will get on her feet again and will move forward to a higher level. As a matter of fact, the world is regaining her feet even while people are talking about how she can begin. There are evidences of this both at home and abroad. No human being can now forecast the direction and extent of progress in the next generation or two. We can only judge by the past and nothing is more amazing than the industrial advances of the world in the generation or two preceding the war. You have kept track of the rapid progress of this country. I need not recite well known facts. That of other countries was not so great, but it was very notable. Between the eighties and the beginning of the war it is estimated that the wealth of Great Britain increased from less than $50 to more than 70 billions; that of France from 41 to 58 billions; of Italy from 12 to 22 billions, and of Germany, according to Hefnerich, from 36 to 40 billions. "The debts in the state banks of three of those nations (England, France and Germany) increased from 293 to 585 millions of dollars; and in other financial establishments of three of them (England, France and Italy) from about six billions to 29 billions.

Nations Have Money Due.

"Again, we must not overlook the fact that some of those nations still have very large investments or debts due them from other nations, including our own. It is estimated that Great Britain today has investments or holdings against foreign peoples approximating $15,000,000,000, including over $3,000,000,000 against the people of this country, and that France has foreign investments of $8,000,000,000 or $10,000,000,000, both including loans to allies. By the end of a reasonable period within which the industry of the world will move upward, the sum total of international trade transactions will be enormous and it may be that European countries indebted to us can absorb their indebtedness without difficulties approximating those now apprehended. I say these things with due regard for the difficulties confronting the peoples of Europe today and with deep sympathy for them in the midst of their sacrifices and vexing tasks."

Secretary Houston also advocated a revision of the tax system with a view to wiping out inequalities and to assuring sufficient revenue, which he said might not be realized if the present system remained intact. He pointed out that as early as last March he urged the repeal of the excess profits tax and a modification of the income super-tax.

Closing with an appeal for unbiased action in dealing with the nation's fiscal problems, he said: "What we need is more light and less heat, more sunshine and less fog, more facts and less misrepresentation, more impartial interpretation of the facts, more courage and willingness to follow convictions to their reasonable logical end, and more patriotism and less partisanship."

entatives to please their case, they were refused even a hearing." He continued: "The record of all these transfers was bound in a document that was called the treaty, and with them was bound another document guaranteeing that all these transfers would be upheld by force, and that document was called the covenant of the League of Nations." Later, declaring that the nations of Europe were following their traditional policy, he said: "France and Belgium have recently concluded an offensive and defensive treaty of alliance against Germany, and I will say for the benefit of my pro-league friends that that treaty has never been registered with the league, and there is no prospect that it will be."

Carpet-Bag Government. He didn't know, he said, "but what the specimen league covenant that the President brought back is as good as any that could be formed, but I do know that it establishes an international carpet-bag government of the world, with us as the sustaining member. It reminds me of a partnership in which we furnish the assets and the other fellow furnishes the liabilities." Then he presented this point: "Either the member nations of the league are their own judges of what their obligations and duties are, or else the central government of the league is the judge. If the members are their own judges, then the nations will be engaged in endless conflict with each other, because we differ violently in our opinions of our duties. On the other hand, if the central government is the judge, then, to enter it, we must surrender up our independence and become a part of a motley sup-government."

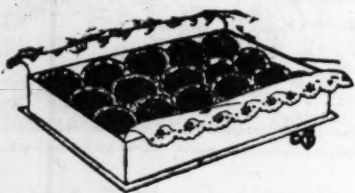

Beveridge declared that the amendment to the covenant providing for withdrawal from the league contains a "joker," in the form of a clause which states that the nation can withdraw after "it has discharged its obligations to the league."

Obligations in League. "Why," exclaimed Beveridge, "we already have contracted obligations that we cannot discharge in the next 25 years! Imagine what our obligations will be after we have been in the league a few years." And he added: "For the benefit of those who say we should go in now and seek amendments later, I should like to ask that, if this is the best we could get in the way of amendments before we entered, what would we get after we were in?"

Concerning the whole league issue in the campaign, Beveridge said: "It is grotesque and fantastic that we should have had to make an issue of this thing, when we should be bending our attention on a thousand problems at home." He recited the conditions of the schools, the low pay of teachers, the amount of illiteracy, the cost of living, the housing congestion, the development of waterways, condition of the railroads, growth of land tenantry, and added: "Yet in the face of these appalling problems we are forced to devote a whole campaign to an issue which should no more concern us than the French occupation of Syria or the British absorption of Persia."

Says Food Supply Decreases.
The speaker said a sinister condition exists among the farms of the country. "Our food supply actually is decreasing. Thousands of acres that have been in wheat this year will be turned out to grass. Immense areas of farming land have been abandoned. For the first time in our history, tenant farmers outnumber those who own their land. We have now, for the first time, the materials for an agricultural proletariat; it is inevitable that this proletariat will join the industrial proletariat of the cities. Then we will have the basic condition for sovietism."

His comment upon waterways was: "It is astounding that, although America has the most extensive and practicable system of natural waterways on earth, we have made smaller use of them than any other civilized country on the globe. Relief of the alarming congestion that is almost crushing our railroads, reduction of exorbitant freight and passenger rates, constructive employment for thousands of men who soon will be idle, require that we immediately begin to put our waterways in condition for traffic."

Summing the domestic questions that are demanding attention, he said: "The Senate Committee on Reconstruction, now making the most important investigation that has ever been made since our Government was founded, estimates that the very lowest sum required to do the thing that absolutely cannot be neglected any longer, is $25,000,000,000."

Denouncing interference by the authorities with free speech and free press, he declared that one of the first things the country must do is "return to popular, representative government."

"Violation of Constitution."
"The violation by Government agencies of the Constitution in the last seven years would fill a book," he said. "Never since it was adopted has the Constitution been so trampled upon." And, he said, while on that subject:

"As to our friends who say that the league covenant cannot cancel the Constitution, you can reply to them, it cannot, but it would put us upon our honor to disregard the Constitution."

The meeting was under the auspices of the Junior Republicans. Col. Dwight Davis introduced the speaker, Beveridge, showing many signs of the strain of campaigning, exhibited his unquestioned ability to sway an audience, and cheering was spontaneous and frequent.

VASSAR PRESIDENT REPUDIATES G. O. P. "FOR NATIONAL HONOR"

Declares He Will Vote "Straight Democratic Ticket" in Order to Be on Side of Public Welfare.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Oct. 20.—President MacCracken of Vassar College yesterday announced his intention of voting this fall for Cox and Roosevelt, for Gov. Alfred E. Smith and the "straight Democratic ticket" in order to be on the side of public welfare and national honor.

President MacCracken is a registered Republican. He says, as one who has voted the Republican ticket in years past: "I should like to be able to vote for the Republican ticket this year, but there is a limit to party allegiance, and the actions of the Republican party both as to nominees and platform have stretched my loyalty to the breaking point. I cannot vote the Republican ticket, because careful inquiry convinces me that the Democratic candidates are sincere and capable men."

"My inquiry about Gov. Cox from friends in Ohio have satisfied me that he is the same kind of friend as Al Smith. I have been urged to throw my vote away as a protest vote upon a third party candidate. A protest vote, however, is just what the Republicans want. Why should I make my vote count one by merely subtracting it from the Republicans when by casting it to the Democratic candidates I can make a difference of two? The issues both of state and nation this year are really nonpartisan, however, and most of my colleagues have felt it necessary to declare themselves on one side or the other. I feel justified, therefore, in asking to be counted on the side of state welfare and national honor."

HOOSIER

CLUB PLAN SALE

$100 Delivers
Your Hoosier

NOW'S the time to buy your Hoosier Kitchen Cabinet while this Club Plan Sale is going on. You'll never have an opportunity to get one in any easier way. Just think of it—the payment of only one dollar will put a Hoosier in your kitchen. Then, while using it, you can finish paying for it—a little each month.

And you couldn't get a Hoosier at any lower price if you paid cash for it all at once. The Club Sale price is the same as the lowest cash price at which the Hoosier is sold anywhere.

But if you want to get a Hoosier in this easy way, you'd better act quickly. This Club Plan Sale is for a short time only. It is limited to a certain number of Cabinets. When they are sold the sale ends. And a lot of them have been sold already, although the sale has been going on only a few days.

Remember, $1 down puts the time-saving, labor-saving Hoosier into your kitchen. And then you'll have a long time to finish paying for it.

THE Hoosier Kitchen Cabinet is the best on the market today. It's built to last a lifetime, has all the conveniences that any other Cabinet has and many that others lack. It's easy to keep clean. It can save you miles of steps and hours of work. Put a Hoosier in your kitchen and you can spend more time in your living room.

NO VOTE BY LEAGUE TO ENFORCE PEACE ON CANDIDATES

Referendum on Preference for President by Missouri Branch Presented by Plan of Organization.

BODY CANNOT TAKE PART IN POLITICS

National Secretary Suggests That Pro-Leaguers Here Carry Out Their Plan as Individuals.

A telegram received today from William H. Short, national secretary of the League to Enforce Peace, will prevent the carrying out of a plan to take a referendum vote of the 5000 Missouri members of the league on their preference as to the election of Harding or Cox.

A resolution calling attention to Harding's opposition to the League of Nations and Cox's outspoken advocacy of it had been prepared for submission to the members by Miller Hageman of St. Louis, secretary of the Missouri Branch of the League to Enforce Peace, of which former President Taft is the national president. The resolution was submitted by Hageman to Secretary Short, who is a strong supporter of the League of Nations.

Cites Articles of Incorporation. Short's telegram in reply is as follows: "The League to Enforce Peace is prevented from taking partisan action by the following section, under its articles of incorporation: 'The league shall at no time seek or attempt to exercise any political power or to advocate or oppose any individual for any public office whatsoever, or aid or influence the nomination or election or defeat of any candidate for public office, or take any measures or steps whatsoever in connection with any election, or aid or promote the success or defeat of any political party or principle or proposition submitted to a vote at any election. Nor shall it other than by written or oral argument or explanation seek to influence the views or actions of any person or persons.'

Short Personally for Cox. "This, however, does not prevent me and other officers of the league from working and voting for Cox, as it does not prevent Mr. Taft and others from standing for Harding. 'I suggest that the members of your committee in a public statement call attention to the prohibition of political activity by the league and act together, as individuals, rather than as league representatives. There is no necessity of resigning from the league to take such action.' To Act as Individuals.

Secretary Hageman today said he would revise his resolution so that it would not have an official character as coming from the League to Enforce Peace and would submit it to the members of the Executive Campaign Committee of the Missouri Branch and ask them to sign it as individuals and issue a statement as to their stand on the League of Nations and on the presidential candidates.

James C. Jones, a Democrat, is chairman of the committee. The other Democratic members are John M. Atkinson, candidate for Governor; Charles M. Hay, Joseph E. Woracek, Edward F. Goltra and Verne Lacy.

Republican Members. The Republican members are Mrs. Philip N. Moore, the Rev. William R. King and H. J. Pettigill, president of the Southwestern Telephone Co.

Oscar Leonard, superintendent of the Jewish Educational and Charitable Association, is also on the committee. Leonard today said he had always voted independently and intended to vote for Cox and Roosevelt on the League of Nations issue. "I have always been for the league," he said, "and the seven months I spent in Europe as a commissioner of relief convinced me that without the League of Nations we will have war frequently. The league is a moral, not a political issue."

Army Captain Married. Capt. Arthur Mudd, United States Army, stationed at Jefferson Barracks, son of the late Dr. James R. Mudd of St. Charles, and Miss Vera

W. Tally daughter of the late Dr. Horace A. Tally of Wentzville, Mo., were married yesterday afternoon at Church of St. Philip of Neri, St. Louis, by the Rev. Father Clarke of St. Patrick's Catholic Church at Wentzville.

Cream soups better than you've ever made before!

Hot tomato soup—how good it is for lunch or supper! It is good the way you make it now, but next time, make it this way with Libby's Evaporated Milk:

2 cups Libby's Evaporated Milk
1-4 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon sugar
1 tablespoon flour
2 cups tomato
1-4 cup water
2 teaspoons minced
onion
1-4 teaspoon soda
cayenne pepper

Scald the milk and thicken with the flour, which should be rubbed into a little cold milk to make a smooth paste and this added slowly to the hot milk. Stir constantly for a few moments while the flour cooks. Add salt, sugar and the cayenne pepper mixed with the water.

Cook the tomato and the minced onion for ten minutes and strain. There should be no lumps or seeds left in. Return to the fire and add the soda. Combine the tomato and the cooked milk and serve at once with croutons. Serves six.

See how much richer Libby's Evaporated Milk makes all your cream soups—and everything in which you use it. It is fine, pure milk with more than half the moisture removed; nothing added. It is sterilized—to come to you fresh and pure.

And it is so economical, so convenient you will wonder how you ever kept house without it!

Libby's Milk comes from the most famous dairy lands of the United States. It is so rich that when your recipe says milk you dilute Libby's Milk half and half with water. Whenever you want cream, use Libby's Milk just as it comes from the can, rich and creamy.

Ask your grocer today for this famous milk.

Honest Advertising.

THIS is a topic we all hear now-a-days because so many people are inclined to exaggerate. Yet has any physician told you that we claimed unreasonable remedial properties for Fletcher's Castoria? Just ask them. We won't answer it ourselves, we know what the answer will be.

That it has all the virtues to-day that was claimed for it in its early days is to be found in its increased use, the recommendation by prominent physicians, and our assurance that its standard will be maintained.

Imitations are to be found in some stores and only because of the Castoria that Mr. Fletcher created. But it is not the genuine Castoria that Mr. Fletcher honestly advertised, honestly placed before the public and from which he honestly expects to receive his reward.

Special Care of Baby.

That Baby should have a bed of its own all are agreed. Yet it is more reasonable for an infant to sleep with grown-ups than to use a man's medicine in an attempt to regulate the delicate organism of that same infant. Either practice is to be shunned. Neither would be tolerated by specialists in children's diseases.

Your Physician will tell you that Baby's medicine must be prepared with even greater care than Baby's food.

A Baby's stomach when in good health is too often disarranged by improper food. Could you for a moment, then, think of giving to your ailing child anything but a medicine especially prepared for Infants and Children? Don't be deceived.

Make a mental note of this:—It is important, Mothers, that you should remember that to function well, the digestive organs of your Baby must receive special care. No Baby is so abnormal that the desired results may be had from the use of medicines primarily prepared for grown-ups.

SHOES

Thirty-five thousand men and boys will save money on shoes today

THIS will happen today; it happens every business day in the year.

Thirty-five thousand men and boys will walk into the stores of leading independent shoe merchants: some will ask for McElwain Shoes; some will ask merely for "the best shoes you have at a medium price" and will be sold McElwain Shoes.

And everyone of those thirty-five thousand men and boys will save money.

The reason why they will save money, why you will save money by asking for McElwain Shoes, is told in the Saturday Evening Post this week, in the double page advertisement reproduced above.

In less than five minutes you can read this advertisement and memorize the McElwain name. And those five minutes will pay you dividends every year of your life, on every pair of shoes you buy.

50 MUSICIANS IN MOVE IN SUPPORT OF WAITERS

Symphony Artists Refuse to Play at Statler for Convention—Concert Given at Odeon.

Evidence that the strike of 2200 union waiters, waitresses and cooks, which was begun Oct. 1 following the adoption of the open shop policy by the Associated Hotel and Restaurant Owners, is not approaching a settlement was shown last night in three incidents, two of which called for police action.

The most important development was the refusal of 50 symphony artists affiliated with the Central Trades and Labor Union to give a concert at Hotel Statler, one of the places at which the open shop policy is being maintained.

It was said today that while there is no strike of union musicians who are employed at open shop hotels and restaurants under contracts which became effective before the open shop policy was adopted, the sympathy of the musicians for the cause of the striking waiters, waitresses and cooks will not permit them as individuals to accept engagements at any of the open shop establishments that are not covered by existing contracts.

Concert Given at Odeon.

The musicians who refused to play at the Statler last night had been engaged for the entertainment of the visitors to the National Paint, Oil and Varnish convention, and rather than miss hearing the program the visitors agreed to go to the Odeon, where the concert was given.

The two other episodes of the night were the slugging of a negro pantryman and a white cook who had taken the places of strikers. As a result of the first assault several pickets and union officials, including James Scully, business agent of Waiters' Union, Local 20, were arrested on suspicion.

The negro, Alonzo Macklin, 22 years old, of 2717 Lawton avenue, a pantryman, who is said to have been acting as a waiter at Hotel Jefferson, was hit in the face with a brick thrown by one of a group of men at Thirteenth and Locust streets, when Macklin was on his way home from work at 8:30 o'clock last night.

Cook Chased on Way Home. The cook, John Walker, 41, of 4127A Kennerly avenue, was chased by a crowd of men when he left the Arco Restaurant, 407 North Broadway. He sought refuge in a chili restaurant at 104 North Sixth street, and told the police that he was followed into the place by a man whom he recognized as an official of one of the cooks' locals and beaten and kicked.

Among those arrested in connection with the assault on Macklin was Manuel Sanchez, 44, of 1614 Chestnut street, editor of a labor paper. Macklin was unable to identify any of the suspects arrested. All were released on bond.

LABOR'S ATTITUDE IN STRIKE.

As has been told, the Central Trades and Labor Union and the Building Trades Council, both representing 94,000 trades unionists, have resolved to give their moral and financial support to the strike of the hotel and restaurant employees on the theory that the present fight is but a forerunner in St. Louis of a nation-wide move against the closed shop.

Marion Henderson, secretary of the Musicians' Mutual Benevolent Association, said today that although existing contracts between union musicians and open-shop hotels and restaurants will not be disregarded, he knew that it was the sentiment of union musicians to accept no engagements requiring them to play in the open shop establishments until the strike is settled on terms satisfactory to the unions involved.

BOY, 15, ARRESTED AS THIEF. Policeman Captures Him Trying to Steal Car Conductor's Grip.

Harold Lammering, 15 years old, of 4654A Greer avenue, was arrested in a clump of weeds near the Taylor avenue loop of the Lee avenue street car line last night after Policeman Roosmann fired a shot at the boy after he saw the boy attempt to steal a grip containing $34 belonging to the conductor of a Lee avenue car as the car stood on the loop.

The boy, the policeman said, forced out a bar on the window at the side of the conductor's cage and reaching in was taking out the grip when the policeman interfered and he ran. A second boy who was standing nearby escaped. Lammering was sent to the House of Detention.

ARMY FLYERS FINISH 9000-MILE JOURNEY

Airplanes That Went to Nome Return to New York—Covered Unexplored Territory.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—After more than three months' absence, during which they had flown 9000 miles, much of it over territory never before ventured into either by air or afoot, the men of the Army Air Service's Alaska expedition landed at Mitchell Field, Hempstead, yesterday, with their planes—the same with which they had set out—looking as if they had just emerged from a thorough overhauling. There was nothing in the appearance of the flyers or their vehicles to suggest they had been out for more than an hour's flight.

Mitchell Field was all set at an early hour to give the home coming adventurers a proper welcome. Maj. Horace M. Hickham, in charge of the Information Division, Army Air Service, had flown from Washington to represent Major-General Charles T. Menoher in extending the glad hand. All available planes were at the line ready to take the air as an escorting force, and when at 1 o'clock word came that the Alaska expedition was approaching two squadrons, one of five and one of three planes, set out.

Three-Hour Trip From Erie. Maj. Hickham placed his own plane at the disposal of a reporter who joined the welcoming force with Sergt. Edmond Henriques as pilot.

After flying across the Hudson and cruising up and down over New Jersey the escort picked up the Alaskans over Jamaica Bay. Capt. Street had led his force into New York at 157th street and had followed the Hudson south and the coast line east until certain of his bearings for Mitchell Field.

It was 1:35 o'clock, three hours and a half from Erie, Pa., when the wandering planes touched their wheels to the turf of Mitchell Field. A large part of the trip was over absolutely unexplored territory, unmapped or charted only on the unreliable statements of trappers. Mountains, which it has been said were only 5000 feet high, proved to thrust their summits more than 12,000 feet into the sky. For stretches of 200 or 300 miles there was no possible landing in the event of engine trouble.

Moreover, beyond Dakota, such landing fields as Capt. Douglas, scouting ahead of the flyers, had been able to locate were of the roughest. Some were literally hewn out of the forest. Others were stubble fields from which the wheat had just been cut. At Prince George it was necessary to reimburse owners of wheat, to induce an early cut, so the aviators could land.

The weather, too, was such as no other flyers have been forced to face. Valleys filled with fog between the towering peaks. Sudden gales howling around the bases of the hills. Long storms which held the men earthbound for days on end, afforded material for their Alaska logs.

Left Minn. July 15. Leaving Mitchell Field on July 15, the route took them via Erie, Grand Rapids, Winona, Minn.; Minneapolis, Fargo, Short, Saskatchewan, Edmonton, Alta.; Jasper, Alta.; Prince George, B. C.; Wrangell, White Horse, Dawson, Fairbanks and Ruby to Nome.

One great aim of the trip, the mapping of unexplored Alaska from the air, was defeated by bad weather. The actual flying time of the expedition was 114 hours, distributed over 31 flying days. The rest of the time was spent waiting for weather in which flying was possible. The Alaskans were so enthusiastic that Juneau is talking of starting an Aero Club and private citizens consider getting seaplanes for commercial work.

BARUCH GIVES REASONS FOR FINANCING MOVING PICTURE

Files Statement With Clerk of House Because of Political Phase of "Uncle Sam of Freedom Ridge."

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Bernard M. Baruch made public yesterday a copy of an affidavit he sent to the Clerk of the House of Representatives telling how much money he spent and what his purpose was in financing the moving picture version of "Uncle Sam of Freedom Ridge." The affidavit reads:

"I, the undersigned, Bernard M. Baruch of 15 East Forty-ninth street, New York City, do hereby state and certify that, pursuant to an agreement with Mr. Harry Levey of the Harry Levey Service Corporation, 230 West Thirty-eighth street, New York City, I have advanced to said Harry Levey, and expended, the sum of $35,000 and have promised to advance and expend, if necessary, $14,000 in addition thereto, for the production of a screen version of the story of Miss Margaret Prescott Montague, entitled, 'Uncle Sam of Freedom Ridge.'"

"This story, which was written long before the present political campaign, carries a strong appeal to the American people to fulfill our national obligation. It is therefore calculated to influence voters to support the election of representatives to the Congress of the United States who believe that the adoption of the League of Nations is essential to carrying out our national obligations and pledge to limit armament and burdens of militarism, and promote the peace of the world."

"While a statement of this expenditure may not be required by the letter of the law, it seems to me to be within the spirit, and is therefore filed under the provisions of the statute."

Kearney

SECOND INSTALLMENT.

MOST immediately there were sounds in the room, as of someone moving about. Belden sat up, his teeth and listened to them. Of course, it was the sound of nerves, and it probably meant that he was about to break down, to collapse. How suddenly it had come! What a strange form it had taken! He wasn't anything—he was just hearing things, and he had supposed that if—if anything—anyone—came to him, it was more apt to be seen than heard. Now it was in the corner—in Kearney's corner. Naturally, where it would be. If he looked there he might find something—but he did not dare to look.

With a leap Belden was on the floor. He switched on the lights and examined the room carefully, even looking down, with a grim smile at his own fears, to see if the lightest of the door of his room was open. When he entered, but he locked it now; then, with the strongest efforts of will he had ever made, he closed the lights again and got back into bed.

The instant the darkness folded around him the sounds had previously heard were repeated, in that far corner of the room. For an hour—the longest hour of his life—he lay there, with a groan, and turned on the lights. A time, he had no idea how long, he sat on the edge of the bed and waited for what would happen. In the morning, he decided, he would go to the post surgeon and get a nerve tonic, without explaining why he needed it. In the meantime he would see what effect light had on his morbid imaginings.

That it had some effect was clear at once. The sounds ceased, and in their place a deepened silence hung over the room—the silence of something passive, watching and waiting. Belden became convinced that he was not alone, that something he could not see and, mercifully, he did not hear, was with him. He experienced a sudden trembling, as if he was in a nervous state, and he slipped back into bed, where he lay with his eyes staring straight before him.

After a time his trembling stopped, and he drew a sigh of relief as his pulses steadied. His nerves were not up to bearing the dark, that was all; he would have a tonic and would soon be all right. He was very anxious that he must not think about that room or anything that had happened recently.

He entered his mind on events long past—on West days, on girls he knew in the East, on big game he had shot. But no; when he had shot that game he had been with him, and he must not think of Kearney. He drove his memory back to his boyhood home, to the old swimming hole, to the quiet fields and orchards where he had played. He slept.

When he awoke the sunshine was flooding his room, and in its gorgeous radiance the electric bulbs shone like pale reminders of the unsubstantial horrors of the night. With a great throb of thankfulness he lay out of bed and stretched and shook his athletic body, as if shaking from his shoulders the shadows that had ridden him in the dark.

He bathed and dressed he whistled cheerfully, ate his breakfast with the best appetite he had known for a week. There was much to be done that day, for he had been lying back a bit, and now he attacked his work with vigor, rejoicing in the distraction it brought him.

As he crossed the parade ground and observed the quarters of the post surgeon in the distance, a sudden memory of a suggested nerve tonic shot into his mind, but he ignored it with a smile. An experience he had had might happen to anyone—indeed, it hardly failed to happen, he supposed, given the conditions. But it was over, and by Jove! he was glad it was. He wouldn't have wanted it indefinitely prolonged. At the thought a sudden shiver ran down his spine, warmed though he was by the grateful sunshine.

That night he worked until almost 7 o'clock, and then he started for his room to dress for a "family" at the Colonel's quarters, his mind was still with the details of a project on which he and one of his superior officers were working together. If he had not wholly forgotten his experience of the night before, it was certainly overlaid by more important matters; and it was therefore with a shock of genuine surprise that he again heard behind him, as he walked, the sound of quick, soldierly footsteps. Even as he took them in, his first conscious emotion was not annoyance. Was he going through that business again? If he was, it was carrying things a bit far. He did not deserve it.

The annoyance turned upon himself. Why the devil should he be gone to Clark that morning and got the tonic needed? He had had his warning, which would have been enough for anyone else. He entered the room almost sulkily, and as he passed through the door he had an odd sensation of something squeezing in on him—something that brushed his shoulder as it went. It was so definite that he was glad to reach the door and turn on the lights. As he did this he glanced around expectantly. There was nothing to be seen, though the sense of presence in the room, subtle but pervasive, deepened momentarily.

His heart Belden was very thankful that he was with the Blakes. A good dinner and cheerful companions would brace him up, and he would come to, so doubt, in a different condition of mind and body.

He crossed the room to a closet to get the garments he wanted to wear, and as he did so felt again that odd sensation of something accompanying him, pressing close to him. It was as if a willing, eager presence tried to get ahead of him, to anticipate his wants; and now Belden recalled, with a quickening of his heart beats, Kearney's occasional tendency to "get under his feet," as he had expressed it, when he had been drinking.

He sat down in a chair to pull off his shoes, and felt suddenly that unseen hands were pulling at them as well. The perspiration started out on his face. He took his handkerchief from his pocket and wiped it off with a hand which now, he observed with disapproval, was shaking visibly.

"Jove!" he muttered under his breath. "It's getting worse. I'll get that tonic tomorrow—won't I, just?" By the time he was dressed he was trembling all over. Each article he had picked up had seemed to be handed to him, and he had been unable to lose for an instant that sense of a crowding presence, so near that occasionally it touched him. He believed he would hear as well as feel it if he turned his lights out, but he did not dare make the experiment. Instead, he left them burning, for he knew he would not have the courage to enter that dark house at midnight.

On his way to the Colonel's quarters he stopped at the post surgeon's, and, finding that gentleman already at dinner, casually dragged him from the table to his consulting room to demand a sedative and a nerve tonic.

"I'm not sleeping well," he explained.

The doctor nodded and, turning to the shelves behind him, began to handle bottles and make up a prescription. "I think," hazarded Belden, "I'd like something, now—something quieting."

Clark looked rather surprised, but he mixed a dose of bromide and gave it to the young man without comment.

"I'll give you a little sulphonal, too," he remarked. "The dose is 10 grains at bedtime. And take the tonic three times a day," he added, wrapping up the bottles. "You'll be all right in a week or two."

Belden dropped the small package into the pocket of his overcoat and agreed politely that he would. There was an immense comfort in Clark's matter-of-fact attitude, and he did not remind himself that the doctor knew nothing of his condition beyond the fact that he was not sleeping well.

He enjoyed his dinner at the Blakes', and was so braced up by it that he even smiled to himself as he opened the door leading into his brightly lighted hall. Strange that he should have got into such a blue funk. He had actually been afraid to enter his own quarters.

He turned off the hall light with a grin and cheerfully started upstairs. Just behind him, and very, very near, sounded the quick, tap, tap of feet that followed him. They stopped as he entered his lighted room, but again something entered with him and pressed against him as he walked.

Belden staggered over to his bed, sat down on the side of it, took his head in his hands and groaned. Then he found himself moving, as if to make room. Something, he thought, was sitting beside him, very close to him.

The night that followed was the most terrible he had ever known. Again he kept the lights burning, but he did not fall asleep until dawn, after he had taken two doses of sulphonal. Tonight The Thing was not in the distant corner—its corner—but hovering near him. Several times he fancied that it was sitting on the side of the bed; twice he had the feeling that the blankets were being drawn over him; and for one black moment, which brought out a cold sweat all over his body, he was certain that something was trying to creep in beside him. At that he cried and sprang up.

Maxims of a
Modern Maid

By Marguerite Mooers Marshall

OF the chemical compound of marriage, divorce is often the only precipitate left in life's test-tube.

Nothing so disconcerts the professional alibi-framer as to have his wife remark sweetly, "It's all right, dear," before he is fairly started on the story of why he was an hour late to dinner.

Nowadays, according to the cynic, the young person's age of innocence is coincident with the era of the cradle and the rattle—and even then Freud will get you, if you don't watch out!

When a man becomes engaged he gives a mortgage on himself, and no matter how promptly he keeps up the interest payments of attention and affection, his wife forecloses and takes possession whenever she wishes.

Some cats say "miau! miau!" and some tell you that REALLY you ought to know what people are saying!

On his way to the Colonel's quarters he stopped at the post surgeon's, and, finding that gentleman already at dinner, casually dragged him from the table to his consulting room to demand a sedative and a nerve tonic.

Three Winter Wraps
and an Afternoon GownShown in a Recent
New York Fashion ShowMany Changes Are Noted
In the One-Piece DressTunics Have Given Way to Panels and Bright Colors Are Much in Evidence.

By LOUISE M. KELLARS.

THERE is a subtle difference in the style phases of the "little dresses" for daytime appearance that distinguishes them from their immediate predecessors, and which, at first glance, may not be apparent to the superficial observer. The same simplicity of line marks their shaping, the same girlish attributes of trim and detail are again introduced, and discreet dashes of color once more vivify the sober blue of tricot or the somber hues of brown, black or green in duvetyns, velvets or satins.

Nevertheless, to be quite up to the minute in our one-piece frocks, we shall find it necessary to be off with the dress of last season and to contentedly indulge ourselves in one of the new models.

Upon close observation we note many changes in the autumn dress. One is that the erstwhile plaits of universal patronage have been superseded by odd little pieces of cloth, fluted after the manner of the Egyptian garment, and appended to the slim little frock, here, there and everywhere in the most unexpected manner, but with a careful eye to balance and proportion, making for an artistic and wearable ensemble. Or, if one is wearied of plaits, French, ancient Egyptian or plain American; attached, detached, flying or quiescent, then there is the ribbon or braid understudy—usually introduced across the hip line in several rows, and thence going its own sweet way to the skirt hem, where each ribbon strand of braid piece is pointed and weighted with an ornamental ball button or braid device. Always there is a sense of activity in the wearing of such frocks—swinging panels, swaying ribbons, floating braid, giving an indescribable appearance of dash and go, eminently characteristic of the verve and independence of the latter-day American woman.

Never has color been so lavishly applied to dresses whose basic principle is one of service. It has been infused by the hand of the embroiderer's needle, the ribbon girder, the vester, the hem facings—anywhere that the fertile fancy of the designer has suggested.

The influence of the departing season is shown in the new models, principally in the sleeve lengths and the neck outlines. Without question, the short sleeve will prevail for early autumn. It is very girlish for one thing, and accord so thoroughly with the collarless neck and the abbreviated skirt that its absolute withdrawal as a style feature would tend to mar the beauty of the frock as a whole. Of course, there is the sleeve of three-quarter length, which few of us consider pretty, except, perhaps, in a suit jacket. Speaking in a style sense, there seems no half-way halt for the sleeve. Either it must be short or it must be long. From Paris comes word that several of the leading couturiers have signified their intention of stressing the sleeve of wrist length by way of marked departure from the modes of the passing season. It is the new way—a sort of dress in front and a coat in the back. Fullness is usually adjusted at the sides. But fullness of any sort is a thing very carefully treated by the fashion makers. The very adjustment of folds, wrinkles, or tucks is the one sure guide to the status of the designer, and either makes or mars the style prospects of the model. The new American models look like the simplest of the simple gowns; but they are most difficult of achievement.

Few of the dresses are wide through the hem. In certain of the redingote types there is a relative suggestion of width in the tunic because of lack of width in the foundation skirt. Such tunics are usually slashed at the sides, down the front and back, and become, in fact, panels.

The low waistline prevails to the exclusion, practically, of other sorts. It is not the Oriental suggestion of last season, but the dropped line of the chemise robe, not novel but eternally youthful, and therefore eternally desirable.

THE SKIN.

BUTTERMILK is a very simple and valuable home remedy for beautifying the skin. It is best used at bedtime, mopped upon the face and allowed to dry in. It is a mild bleach for ten and is well known, also that the milk will prevent wrinkles which are so apt to result when skin has been dried out. The use of buttermilk will refresh the skin to a beautiful velvety softness if persistently applied.

Acid enters into a number of lotions; it is obtainable from lemons, and for that reason this humble acid fruit form and indispensable adjunct to the toilet table. The juice of half a lemon rubbed into the neck and arms several successive nights and allowed to remain until morning is sometimes sufficient to remove a summer coat of tan or freckles. If the skin is very thin and sensitive, dilute the lemon juice with witch hazel water.

A Parisian beauty specialist uses the method about to be described for the treatment of chronic freckles: The face is first thoroughly cleansed, when it is covered with an ointment containing sulphate of zinc 20 grains; elderflower ointment, one ounce, which is allowed to remain on during sleep, and is washed off in the morning with warm water and a bland soap. The skin is carefully dried and a lotion daubed on with absorbent cotton, consisting of citric acid, 30 grains; infusion of rose petals, one-half pint. Allow this to dry in. Since citric acid is lemon juice and infusion of rose petals is expensive, a lotion can be made of strong lemon juice and glycerine, equal parts. The lotion, however, must be strong, as the object is to peel off the skin. Allay any irritation that results from its use with witch hazel water or a cream that has a whitening effect; one containing camphor will be more valuable.

London chorus girls lay claim to having the smallest ankles of any women in the world.

Hints for the Home Maker

EQUAL parts of household ammonia and water will remove oil stains from clothing.

Brush upper crust of pies with milk and the result will be a nicely browned pie.

Talks of eggs may be kept for several days if they are placed in a cup and covered with cold water.

Try fastening an ordinary window shade on a spring roller to the edge of that open shelf. A slight jerk will pull it up quickly and it will stay in place better than one of cloth.

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY

A STRIKING SIMILARITY.

I have taken my car to garages. Whenever the motor went bad; It's been laid up for weeks to fix troubles and squeaks, And golly! what bills I have had! For every man who's repaired it Has found a new rattle or chatter; I have never seen two with a similar view As to what in the deuce was the matter.

And always the day that they fix it It straightway goes balky once more, And the motor starts off with a hard hacking cough That I never have noticed before. And I more than suspect the garage men— When the engine stops short with a sigh— Have arranged its inside with the aim to provide Themselves with a job by and by.

I have taken myself to the doctor Whenever I suffered from ills, And with rosate hope I have taken their dope And swallowed their capsules and pills. But though I've seen thirty or forty, I never knew two to agree; Each doc had a new and a different view As to what was the matter with me.

And when I'd been cured of one ailment By the powder, the pill or the knife, And began to feel fit, I was suddenly hit By a fresh one that saddened my life. And thought I reverse all physicians, Sometimes a suspicion I feel That they work the same tricks as the fellows that fix A broken down automobile.

Twice Reformed.

The Board of Education was at it hammer and tongs when one member cried hotly: "Our reform schools are empty names. I hope the day will come when they will be in reality what little Willie thinks they are." "Willie," said the mother, "I don't like the looks of that little boy you were playing with on the street today. You mustn't play with bad little boys, you know." "Oh, but he isn't a bad little boy," cried Willie. "He's a good little boy. He's been to the reformatory school twice and they've let him out each time on account of good behavior." — Los Angeles Times.

Inefficient Excuse.

"Here! What's coming off out there?" yelled Gap Johnson of Rumpos Ridge, Ark., as a wild clamor arose in the yard. "The baby was playing with my fishing tackle," howled young Johnson, "and he swallowed a fishhook." "Well, what the Sam Hill is that for you to make much a hooraw about? Ain't you got no more fish-hooks?" — Kansas City Star.

Something to Be Thankful For.

"The late William Dean Howells," said the publisher, "was an incurable optimist." "I called on Mr. Howells one day, and as I lit a cigarette I complained about the quality of the matches. 'This complaint brought out Mr. Howells' optimism beautifully. His eyes twinkled and he said: 'Let us be grateful, in days like these, for something that doesn't strike.'"

Well Informed.

"Yes sir, it's pretty hard collecting money just now; I know it." "Have you tried and failed?" "Oh, no!" "How then do you know that money is hard to collect?" "Because several people have tried to collect some from me." — Minneapolis Tribune.
